Dear [Redacted]

Your letter of January 18th, with enclosure, has been received.

With respect to your inquiry, information contained in the files of the FBI must be maintained as confidential in accordance with regulations of the Department of Justice and is available for official use only. I regret I cannot be of help in this instance but trust you will understand the necessary reasons for this policy. It is hoped you will not infer either that we do or do not have data in our files relating to Mr. Kenneth Goff.

Enclosed is some literature which I trust will be of interest.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Mr. Hoover:

The attached clipping appeared in the January 17th, 1965, issue of our local newspaper THE ST. AUGUSTINE RECORD.

We would like very much to have facts concerning the origin, age and background of this man Kenneth Goff. We would particularly like to have verification of the statement underlined concerning his assistance in the removal of "over 112 Communists from the federal payrolls".

Organizations of our city, such as, P-TA associations in membership with the State and National Congresses, and the Democratic Committee, are under attack by so-called "patriotic" groups, and we would like to know what type of people they are bringing to our community to speak for "Americanism". Thank you sincerely for your reply. J

Yours very truly

Kenneth Goff, Former Communist Party Member, Speaks Here Jan. 28

Plans are now completed for the appearance of Kenneth Goff to speak at the Dutch Pantry, St. Augustine, on January 28th, at 8 p.m. He will appear locally under the sponsorship of the Tocol-Hastings Patriots.

Mr. Goff was a member of the Communist Party from May 2, 1936 to October 9, 1939 and in

KENNETH GOFF

1939 voluntarily appeared before the Dies Committee and gave 300 pages of testimony concerning his work and activity. Such is featured in Congressman Dies' book, "The Trojan Horse in America," and described by Dies as the most vital testimony received and backed up with documentary evidence.

He was recruited into the Communist Party by Eugene Dennis, now National Secretary of the Party, who was indicted and sent to prison along with 11 other leading Communists.

Goff operated in the party under the alias of John Keats, and used the number 18-B2. His main activity was with the special branch which laid groundwork for a Communist revolution in the United States. He also worked among the youth organizations of our land, and was a member of the Board of the American Youth Congress, the largest Communist front organization ever to exist in America. While a member of the party he worked closely with the most important Communist leaders in the U. S. and in Moscow.

Since leaving the party he has spoken in 41 States and in Canada, and in his coming to St. Augustine will bring an interesting and enlightening story exposing Red activities and their plans for world revolution.

In 1940, along with former World's heavyweight champion Gene Tunney, he personally appeared at the 6th Congress of the American Youth Council and exposed their Communist connections, which caused that powerful front organization of the Communists to dissolve. In 1941 he was a key witness in exposing the Communists' plan to sabotage our defense through the Allis-Chalmers strike. At that time he appeared before the Wisconsin State Legislature, and his expose can be found in June, 1941 Reader's Digest, under the title "Rehearsal for the Revolution."

Since leaving the party Goff has aided in removing over 112 Communists from the federal payrolls, and through his many books has opened the eyes of millions of Americans to treason in our midst.

Like all former Communists, he is a marked man, and has received many bodily injuries. In all his meetings he brings a clear understanding of how Communism is operating in our nation, and how they are planning a revolution, and what it would be like under Communist control.

Reservations to hear this outstanding speaker can be made by calling VA 9-3018 or VA 9-2569.

Dear

Your letter of April 22nd, with enclosures, has been received.

While I would like to be of service, I am unable to comment concerning your inquiry, since such matters do not fall under the scope of my authority. As you may know, fluoridation is a legislative matter, and it has always been my policy to refrain from injecting the FBI into issues of this sort. Within the Department of Justice, it is a function of the Attorney General to concern himself with the desirability or undesirability of legislation.

Your enclosures are being returned.

To Whom It May Concern:

I, Oliver Kenneth Goff, was a member of the Communist Party and the Young Communist League, from May 2, 1936, to October 9, 1939. During this period of time, I operated under the alias of John Keats and the number 18-B-2. My testimony before the Government is incorporated in Volume 9 of the Un-American Activities Report for the year 1939.

While a member of the Communist Party, I attended Communist underground training schools outside the City of New York; in the Bues Hall, and 113 East Wells Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin. The East Wells Street School operated under the name of the Eugene Debs School. Here, under the tutoring of Eugene Dennis, M. Sparks, Morris Childs, Jack Kling and others, we were schooled in the art of revolutionary overthrow of the established Government.

We were trained on how to dismantle and assemble mimeograph machines, to use for propaganda purposes during the revolution; how to work on guide wires and fuel lines of airplanes so that they would either burst into flames or crash to the ground because of lack of control; how to work on ties and rails to wreck trains; and also the art of poisoning water supplies.

We discussed quite thoroughly the fluoridation of water supplies and how we were using it in Russia as a tranquilizer in the prison camps. The leaders of our school felt that if it could be induced into the American water supply, it would bring-about a spirit of lethargy in the nation; where it would keep the general public docile during a steady encroachment of Communism. We also discussed the fact that keeping a store of deadly fluoride near the water reservoir would be advantageous during the time of the revolution, as it would give us opportunity to dump this poison into the water supply and either kill off the populace or threaten them with liquidation, so that they would surrender to obtain fresh water.

We discussed in these schools, the complete art of revolution: the seizure of the main utilities, such as light, power, gas, and water; but it was felt by the leadership, that if a program of fluoridating of the water could be carried out in the nation, it would go a long way toward the advancement of the revolution.

The above statements are true.

[REDACTED]
Dear [REDACTED]

This will acknowledge receipt of your letters of April 29 and May 29, 1957, concerning a statement by Oliver Kenneth Goff.

On Monday, October 9, 1939, Oliver Kenneth Goff testified under oath before the Special Committee on Un-American Activities. In his testimony, Mr. Goff declared that he joined the Young Communist League in May of 1936 under the assumed name of John Keats. He also declared that he was then a member of the Communist Party. He declared also that he planned to resign from the Young Communist League and the Communist Party following his testimony before the Special Committee on Un-American Activities. Mr. Goff also testified that his code number, which appeared on all the letters he received from the National Committee of the Communist Party, was 18-B1.

Mr. Goff testified at length concerning his various activities within the Communist Party. His testimony is contained in Volume 9 of the Un-American Activities Committee Public Hearings. I regret that I am unable to send you a copy inasmuch as the supply is completely exhausted.

I regret the delay in replying to your letters which has been due to the press of Committee business and I hope that the information as given you in this letter will be of assistance to you.

Sincerely yours

Say "NO"

To Poison-Fluorine In Your Drinking Water

THE FOLLOWING FLUORIDATION FACTS ARE PRESENTED FOR YOUR PROTECTION:

1. What is fluoridation?

Fluoridation is the adding of a deadly, cumulative poison to drinking water for the scientifically-unproved purpose of helping children's teeth resist cavities. When sodium fluoride is added to municipal water supplies, this procedure becomes mass medication of the populace without regard to health, age, sensitivity, or individual need of the citizens drinking this doctored water.

2. Is sodium fluoride a cumulative poison? Will it store up in your body?

Definitely so. Bulletin 130 of the Utah State Agricultural College entitled "Fluorosis", on page 5 states: "Fluorine is a cumulative poison and long continued consumption of relatively small quantities causes fluorosis."

Dr. Paul H. Phillips, biochemist at the University of Wisconsin, says: "It is an accumulative poison which accumulates in the skeletal structures, including the teeth, when the body is exposed to small daily intakes of this element. In this respect, it is like lead accumulation in the bone until saturation occurs and then lead poisoning sets in."

Dr. Charles T. Betts, D.D.S., Toledo, states: "Fluorine is a poison which is cumulative in the body, similar to radium; no antidote is known."

Dr. Royal Lee, D.D.S., Milwaukee, states: "Inorganic fluorine is a cumulative poison... It accumulates in the body even when taken in very small doses... makes bones brittle."

Dr. Robert S. Harris, professor of the biochemistry of nutrition, Mass. Inst. of Technology, says: "Fluorine is a toxic element... which has been shown to interfere with important processes in the body."

Dr. Charles A. Brusch, Director, Brusch Medical Center, Cambridge, Mass., says: "The main thing to remember about Fluorides is that they are protoplasmic poisons; that they have never been medically approved, only venturesome doctors using same."

Dr. James W. Holland, M.D., says in the book Medical Chemistry and Toxicology, that if sodium fluoride is taken habitually in a beverage "the effects accumulate. They are seen in the neuralgias, weak heart, dropsies, phlebitis, painful urination, and loss of calcium salts from the system."

The U. S. Dispensatory, 24th Edition, states (pages 1456-57): "Fluorides are violent poisons to all living tissue because of their precipitation of calcium. They cause fall of blood pressure, respiratory failure, and general paralysis. Continuous ingestion of non-fatal doses causes permanent inhibition of growth."

3. Will this poison store up in your body even when taken in the 1 ppm dosage recommended by the U. S. Public Health Service?

"Absolutely!" Dr. P. Wallace Durbin, of the Crocker Laboratory, University of California, conducted radioactive tracer studies of minute quantities of fluoride many, many times less than 1 ppm, and found that this poison would store up in the body.

Further, Dr. Paul H. Phillips, biochemist at the University of Wisconsin, states: "We have worked with all sorts of levels of fluorine... in very low levels of less than 1 part per million..." and Dr. Phillips says, as noted above, that it is an accumulative poison which stores up in the body. He further states: "I long ago came to the conclusion that the smaller amount of fluorine we were exposed to, the better off we'd be."

While the Public Health Service tells the public consistently that the recommended and accepted dosage is 1 ppm, they are actually allowing up to 1.5 ppm in less published statements, and the American Dental Association has openly told all its membership that that Association favors 'up to 2 ppm'. This makes a tremendous difference, as it means just 100% more of the poison than the public is given to believe it is getting, and a difference of 100% in the amount of any drug might mean exactly the difference between life and death. As Dr. Brusch also has stated, there is as much as 700% variation in the reaction of various individuals to chemical elements.

4. Are not naturally-fluoridated and artificially-fluoridated waters the same?

Absolutely not! The fluorides found naturally are usually organic calcium fluorides which are in combination with other natural elements serving to inhibit and neutralize the toxic effects of fluorine, and which can be assimilated by the body; the artificially fluoridated water is obtained with sodium fluoride, which is an inorganic, cumulative poison 85 times more toxic than calcium fluoride, and cannot be assimilated by the body, and which, when added to water, makes hydrofluoric acid, an extremely active and dangerous poison, used chiefly for etching glass.

5. What effect does artificially-fluoridated water have upon the development of cancerous growth?

Dr. Alfred Taylor, of the Biochemical Institute, University of Texas, one of the country's leading research scientists, who appeared before the Delaney Congressional Committee in Washington, D. C., proved conclusively in a series of experiments that the development of cancer was speeded up by the ingestion of fluoridated water at 1ppm and that the life span of his experimental animals was 10 per cent less than that of the animals drinking non-fluoridated water. When his experiments were criticized on some silly technical grounds by the swivel-chair doctors in the U. S. Public Health Service who are promoting fluoridation, Dr. Taylor redid the experiments, and found the results exactly the same—about 10 percent shorter life for those drinking artificially-fluoridated water. Dr. Taylor found that not only was the development of cancer speeded up, but the onset of other fatal diseases as well.

6. What effect does artificially-fluoridated water have upon the digestive processes?

The University of New Mexico Bulletin of August 1, 1938, on the "Menace of Fluorine to Health," states on page 20-21: "Solutions of sodium fluoride with a fluorine content as low as one part in 15,000,000 may inhibit the action of the lipase (pancreatic juice) as much as 50 percent."

7. What effect does fluorine have upon the dentine of the teeth?

University of New Mexico Bulletin referred to above states on page 19: "Although it is true that the enamel of adult teeth is unaffected by fluorine, the dentine, which receives nutrients from the blood stream continually and whose composition is subject to change, will suffer."

8. What effect does artificially-fluoridated water in the recommended dosages have upon the liver?

University of New Mexico Bulletin referred to above, page 20, states: "An inhibitory effect on the action of enzymes, characteristic of antiseptics in general, is a property of all inorganic fluorides. Evidence has been established that there is a specific influence of fluorides on certain enzymatic changes associated with carbohydrates and fats. The results of a study conducted by Kastle and Loevenhart on the effect of antiseptics on the reactions of pancreatic and liver extracts revealed a harmful effect on most substances studied."

9. What about periodontal (gum) diseases from fluoridated water?

Dr. H. K. Box, periodontist of international repute on the Dental Faculty of the University of Toronto, made a survey and found an appallingly high incidence of pyorrhea, gingivitis, and other gum diseases in areas where the water was naturally fluoridated. (Artificially-fluoridated water is 85 times more toxic!)

10. What effect could artificially-fluoridated water have upon the body's protoplasmic and enzymatic system?

Dr. Paul H. Phillips, of the University of Wisconsin, Department of Biochemistry, states: "Fluorine is known to be an enzymatic inhibitor and interferes with metabolism of breakdown of glucose between the 6 carbon and 3 carbon compounds. The metabolism of glucose or its breakdown is our primary source of energy for maintaining life and doing useful work."

11. Does artificially-fluoridated water affect goitre?

Dr. T. Gordonoff of Bern, Switzerland, said fluoridation of drinking water tends to aggravate thyroid conditions in people afflicted with goitre. He has recommended to Swiss health authorities that they stop fluoridation. He bases his findings on extensive experiments with rats having thyroid conditions.

Dr. Douw G. Steyn, of the Department of Pharmacology of the University of Pretoria, South Africa, states that "long continued ingestion of minute quantities of fluorine causes disease of the thyroid gland." This was proved by experiments carried out under the auspices of the Medical Faculty of that University.

12. Does artificially-fluoridated water have an effect on the brain and nerve cells?

Dr. A. L. Miller, M.D., reports in the Congressional Record of March 4, 1952, that a lessened mental reaction is seen in rats and mice who have had fluorides. It is natural to suppose the same would be true in humans.

According to all reports, a marked increase in mental disturbances has been causing great concern in Grand Rapids, Mich., one of the first cities to be fluoridated (1945), and this has been the subject of special conference by "mental experts". Also the children of that city give increasing evidence of mental retardation, with failure to make the grade in school.

13. Why can promoters of fluoridation state that medical science is ignorant of any bad effects from fluoridated water?

Simply because the experiments have not been going on a long enough time to demonstrate these cumulative effects. The American Journal of Chemistry states that fluorine may tend to accumulate within the body so that the symptoms of fluorine poisoning may take as long as 10 years to appear. However, in Sheboygan, Wisconsin, after 8 years of fluoridation, the little children who were fed this drugged water in their nursing bottles began to show the first signs of chronic fluorine poisoning—mottled teeth.

14. Has either the American Dental or American Medical Association done any original scientific research in regard to the effects of artificially-fluoridated water upon teeth or the organs of the human body?

There is no record in scientific literature of their having done so. They seem to be merely echoing the opinions of a group of public health officials from the U. S. Public Health Service, who, likewise, have done no conclusive research.

15. Who is behind fluoridation, and who stands to profit?

Oscar Ewing, attorney for the Aluminum Company of America, which has sodium fluoride as a waste product, gave the fluoridation movement its big push when he became Federal Security Administrator. He left $750,000 a year with the Aluminum Company to take $17,500 a year as F.S.A. head. In 1951 his agency asked for two million dollars for fluorine propaganda alone. He also had millions of dollars to give out to dental and medical colleges, state departments of health, as money grants. Of course, these money grants are given only to those dental and medical colleges and state health departments which foster and promote the programs of the U. S. Public Health Service. It all fits together like a glove! Thus the price of sodium fluoride jumped from 1 1/4 cents a pound when sold as a rat poison up to as much as 15 cents a pound when sold for human consumption in drinking water, and chemical firms, therefore, have a very real financial interest in the promotion of the sale. Equipment firms also, which supply feeding machinery, are profiting hugely, and we find in some instances that the promoters of fluoridation are relatives of the heads of these equipment companies.

16. What methods are used to promote fluoridation?

All the techniques of propaganda, the "band-wagon method" (that lists all the towns fluoridating, even though some may not be); the "prestige method" (that gives the names of organizations as endorsing fluoridation, even though such endorsements are empty and meaningless when not backed up by scientific data); the "glittering generality" method (of making statements that sound good, but when analyzed mean nothing and say nothing); the "name-calling" method (that calls all those who oppose polluted water such names as "crackpots", "fearmongers", etc.); the "fictitious story" method (that relates stories intended to make people who oppose poisoned water appear to be simple and ignorant)—all these propaganda techniques and others are used.

17. Are many cities rejecting fluoridation?

About 1600 communities in the United States have rejected fluoridation so far, with more being added all the time. Cities such as Seattle, Cincinnati, Tallahassee, San Diego, Detroit, Columbus, and Greensboro, to name only a few, have turned thumbs down on fluoridation after studying the pros and cons. Likewise, foreign countries such as Sweden, Switzerland, France, England and West Germany have rejected it as a dangerous practice.

18. Why are so many doctors and dentists favoring fluoridation?

It seems to be a matter of association control. Medical and dental colleges, as well as state health departments, receive large grants of money from the U. S. Public Health Service, which is promoting fluoridation. These money grants are given on the condition that the programs of the USPHS are fostered. Furthermore, it is considered unethical for an individual doctor or dentist to publicly oppose a program which his association has endorsed. However, 123 of the 151 dentists of Worcester, Mass., in 1953 petitioned and demanded that the approval of fluoridation by the Worcester District Dental Society be rescinded. Also, 83 doctors and dentists in Michigan joined in a protest to the Governor of that State on March 31, 1955, against what they termed "the relentless promotional activities of the Michigan State Health Department" for fluoridation. It should be noted, also, that medical associations are slowly waking up and refusing to endorse fluoridation, notably, the Texas Medical Association, and the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons. Others are reconsidering their previous approval, such as the Multnomah County (Oreg.) Medical Association.

19. Has anything beneficial been proved to be due to fluoridation?

Nothing in scientific literature can be found which shows fluorine, the "wild cat" or "villain" of the chemical world, to be a beneficial agent to human biology. Even the delay in dental cavities which is attributed to the ingestion of fluorine has been said by Dr. Paul Manning, D.M.D., to be a "pathological or diseased effect" of fluorine. And Mr. K. K. Palcev, an experienced analyst of experimental data, Fellow of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, states that any apparent benefits, as claimed by the promoters of fluoridation, are due to delays in detection of dental defects, and to errors in methods of statistical calculation. He says: "A short delay in the appearance of tooth decay was mistaken for a radical and permanent reduction in the number of afflicted teeth."

20. Can the people who want fluorides obtain them without having the city water supply fluoridated?

Yes, there is a tablet, now available at drugstores, which when dropped in a quart of water or milk will give the exact proposed ratio of 1 ppm of fluoride.

21. What about the subversive aspects of fluoridation?

There is a school of thought now developing considerable following that fluoridation is Communist-inspired. Former Communists have stated that fluoridation is known to Communists as a method of Red warfare. Considering the recently-exposed infiltration of the many departments of our Federal Government by Communists, it is not unreasonable to suppose that the fluoridation program could be subversive, since the U. S. Public Health Service has mothered the fluoridation program in the United States. Herbert A. Philbrick, noted ex-spy-investigator, who went underground for several years with the organization to get first-hand knowledge of their activities, says in the New York Herald-Tribune of March 18, 1956: "The Communists, who have been publicly urging that sodium fluoride be placed in our public water supply, are currently intensifying their campaign for this measure."

On March 13, 1956, The Daily Worker, the leading Communist newspaper, under the headline "Facts Spur Campaign for Fluoridation Here", concluded the article with this statement: "Politicians in the City Council (New York) and Board of Estimate are timid men who are catering to misguided sentiment, outmoded tradition and backward fears of the unscientific. A widespread educational campaign among both the politicians and people on the value of the Board of Health's program for fluoridation is certainly indicated."

Major George Racey Jordan, USAF Ret., who has testified before committees of Congress relative to Communist activities in the United States, has stated that vast quantities of sodium fluoride were shipped to Russia during World War II for use on prisoners to "make them docile and subservient."

advised as follows:

[redacted] after attending a revival meeting in the summer of 1964, decided to devote his life to the ministry. [redacted] on where to go to school to prepare himself and [redacted] recommended that he attend The Soldiers of the Cross school at Evergreen, Colorado. [redacted] apparently contacted KENNETH GOFF, head of that school, as he began getting mail from GOFF. One of these letters appeared to have been saturated with some substance, thought by him, [redacted] to possibly be sulphuric acid. The odor of the substance was offensive and [redacted] called GOFF and reported the condition of the letter. GOFF led [redacted] to believe that his mail had been contaminated by the Communists. It is his, [redacted] opinion that the substance was placed on the letter by GOFF and the sending of the letter was a trick by GOFF to instill fear in [redacted] that the Communists are on the verge of taking over this country.

[redacted] and [redacted] did enroll in a seven months course at The Soldiers of the Cross school, Evergreen, Colorado, about September 1, 1964, after Rev. GOFF assured [redacted] that his school was accredited. Sometime after Thanksgiving, 1964, [redacted] was issued a 30 calibre rifle and 1000 rounds of rifle ammunition by Rev. GOFF or someone at The Soldiers of the Cross school. [redacted] also bought some clothing which he said was to be used to live in the hills. [redacted] said there were about fifteen students at The Soldiers of the Cross school, all of whom were younger than him and [redacted] and all had to pay $30 for the rifle issued them, but they were not charged for the ammunition that was issued. On a trip to [redacted] in the fall of 1964, [redacted] brought the rifle with him and did some game hunting or target practice around the farm. He, [redacted] did not observe the rifle closely enough to know the make or style of the rifle. [redacted] left, at the farm, one box of the ammunition which he said

Written on the side of the box in black crayon was the price 5¢ each, 4.50/100. This ammunition is copper plated and each shell has the letters F and M and figures 58 on the butt end.

[redacted] was so sold on the teachings of Rev. GOPP that the Communists were going to take over that he urged his father to buy a rifle, telling him he could get a rifle for him at the same price he had to pay. He, [redacted] has tried to show [redacted] the fallacy of the teachings of Rev. GOPP and [redacted] has indicated he has some disillusionment over the teachings. [redacted] has quit attending the school and has obtained a job with the [redacted]

[redacted] has not mentioned who is contributing to the operation of the school The Soldiers of the Cross, except to say that "some rich people like [redacted] contribute."

OC 62-2908

[redacted] has recently stated that GOFF has told him the Communists had made attempts on his life and GOFF knows the twelve top Communists and has sent each of them a letter advising that if he met an accidental death they are to be taken care of and if he dies a normal death he has arranged for an autopsy to be made to determine if death was by poison. [redacted] claims that Goff told him that since he has sent the letters to the twelve top Communists warning them they would be taken care of in event of his death, he has not been bothered by the Communists.

[redacted] stated that he had never owned a gun, however, because of the fact that he was residing in the mountains of Colorado and thought he might like to do some hunting during the fall of 1964, he purchased this particular rifle, together with the 300 rounds of ammunition. He stated he has only fired the rifle on three occasions, and that was in Texas when he was visiting with his father.

[redacted] stated that he learned more about the Bible during his few months at the Soldiers of the Cross School and that he had never heard Reverend KENNETH GOFF or any other instructor advocate or preach any doctrine which he considered opposed to any established Government in the United States. He stated that for a number of years he had been concerned about the international communist conspiracy and had read all literature he could obtain regarding communism.

[redacted] stated that he is concerned about any plans of the international communist conspiracy to take over the Government of the United States, but that at the present time he does not think that this is possible.

[redacted] stated that he does not feel that it is necessary for any individual or organization to organize any group to protect the United States at the present time as he feels that the responsibility of internal security of the United States rests with the U. S. Army and the FBI.

Dear Mr. Hoover -

Please excuse this terrible writing, as I broke my wrist recently and now its left my fingers partially stiff.

This article was published about 2 weeks ago in the Chatta. Free Press and its worried me ever since. You probably know all about this man, and his speeches.

Our Lake Chickamanga is very vulnerable. It would be like shooting fish in a rainbarrel to blow it up.

I had to get this off my mind.

Unsure About Northeast, Though . . .

Ex-Red Goff Says Blackout Of Power in Communist Plan

By WARREN HERRING

Dr. Kenneth Goff, a former member of the Communist party who has spoken in Chattanooga frequently in recent years, said today he doesn't know that the power blackout in the Northeast was Communist-inspired, but that from his experience he knows the Reds included such action in a master takeover plan — code name "Sin Boskin" — prepared in 1930.

The former Communist, who has spoken at various churches in the Chattanooga area in recent years, and most recently before the Brainerd Kiwanis Club in January of this year, said when interviewed by phone at his Evergreen, Colo., office today:

"In 1930, Eugene Dennis and William Z. Foster (Communist party officials) handed out a directive for revolution. In it they said that when the time is ripe Communist functionaries in the nation's 70 largest cities should seize radio stations, then race riots should occur, during which gas, light and water systems in the respective cities would be commandeered."

The former Red, who defected the party and now devotes his time to nationwide speaking engagements on the Communist menace, said the master plan included "dress rehearsals" for the eventual revolution, and indicated it is his belief that this week's massive power failure in the Northeast and the Watts riots in Los Angeles were part of the "dress rehearsal."

RADIO REPORT

Explaining why, Dr. Goff said: "About three months ago, Radio Free Dixie — a Communist Cuba radio station featuring American Negro defector Robert Williams and directing its venom toward the Southern Negro population — said the Communist party is now prepared to destroy eight major dams in the United States and cut off 75 per cent of the nation's power."

Dr. Goff also noted that Williams publishes a magazine in Cuba, called The Crusade, which, he said, made virtually the same declaration.

"On Sept. 23, they got the ball rolling," the vehement anti-Communist declared. "A delegation of top Italian Communist party members came to this country to meet with Gus Hall and others. 'The Italian delegation, which included two members of the Italian Senate, carried orders directing a speedup in the over-all program aimed at overthrowing this nation."

In addition to being members of the Italian Communist party, Dr. Goff said the two Italian senators are, more importantly, members of the Comintern — the central committee of the International Communist conspiracy.

Dr. Goff also told of a meeting last November in Havana, attended by Communist delegates from 20 Latin American nations, observers from Red China, and Fidel Castro.

OLD PLAN

"At that time a direct order came from the Kremlin to the meeting informing the delegates that the initial plan for a complete takeover of Latin America at one time had been discarded. They called the discarded plan 'Trotskyism.'"

"The new directive, instead, called for a Communist takeover of five countries in South America, including Venezuela, the Dominican Republic, Columbia, Guatamala and Peru," the former Red said.

Dr. Goff recalled that on Jan. 18, 1965, Radio Moscow broadcast a report on the conference, disclosing that Cuba had been instructed to make plans to "dump" any person not available for duty in the increased effort "on our shores."

"Right now, they are training guerrillas from many nations, including Viet Nam, in Cuba, and the entire training program is aimed at a takeover of the Western Hemisphere."

Dr. Goff, who said 1970 was the "takeover date when he defected the party," said he looks for more of the "dress rehearsal" performances, probably in the field of transportation.

When asked if he knew of any other occurrences which might be a part of the "dress rehearsal," Dr. Goff said there is a possibility that the destruction of three micro-wave units in the western section of the United States some months ago "could have been part of the plan."

"The incidents cost this country millions of dollars and cut off all overseas communications," he declared.

He also recalled a six-state power failure, which "originated at Pic Town Dam in South Dakota." He said citizens were deprived of power "during one of the coldest times of the year."

Dear Mr. Hoover:

I possess, and have read, a considerable number of books, and Congressional publications, on Communism, its practices and dangers, and, therefore, believe that I have a clearer awareness and a fuller picture than the average person.

However, I have just read a publication whose contents are so startling, bizarre, and whose pages contain statements so bluntly ruthless and detailed in describing a plan of action for brainwashing this country that it is difficult to imagine why I have never read nor heard of any reaction to or even concern expressed about this material. Consequently, the question of credibility arises in my mind.

If this publication be correct in its assertions, then it seems incredible, and criminal, that no public references to the dangers described is known to me. The sole alternative is to question the authenticity of the contents.

May I trouble you to state what degree of credence may be given to the publication: "Brainwashing - A Synthesis of the Russian Textbook on Psychopolitics." This booklet is distributed by a Kenneth Goff, Englewood, Colorado.

I should appreciate any help you may give to me in evaluating this booklet.

as insects. You can cripple the efficiency of leaders by striking insanity into their families through the use of drugs. You can wipe them away with testimony as to their insanity. By our technologies you can even bring about insanity itself when they seem too resistive.

You can change their loyalties by psychopolitics. Given a short time with a psychopolitician you can alter forever the loyalty of a soldier in our hands or a statesman or a leader in his own country, or you can destroy his mind.

However you labor under certain dangers. It may happen that remedies for our "treatments" may be discovered. It may occur that a public hue and cry may arise against "mental healing." It may thus occur that all mental healing might be placed in the hands of ministers and be taken out of the hands of our psychologists and psychiatrists. But the Capitalistic thirst for control, Capitalistic inhumanity and a general public terror of insanity can be brought to guard against these things. But should they occur, should independent researchers actually discover means to undo psychopolitical procedures, you must not rest, you must not eat or sleep, you must not stint one tiniest bit of available money to campaign against it, discredit it, strike it down and render it void. For by an effective means all our actions and researches could be undone.

In a Capitalistic state you are aided on all sides by the corruption of the philosophy of man and the times. You will discover that everything will aid you in your campaign to seize, control and use all "mental healing" to spread our doctrine and rid us of our enemies within their own borders.

Use the courts, use the judges, use the Constitution of the country, use its medical societies and its laws to further our ends. Do not stint in your labor in this direction. And when you have succeeded you will discover that you can now effect your own legislation at will and you can, by careful organization of healing societies, by constant campaign about the terrors of society, by pretense as to your effectiveness make your Capitalist himself, by his own appropriations, finance a large portion of the quiet Communist conquest of the nation.

By psychopolitics create chaos. Leave a nation leaderless. Kill our enemies. And bring to Earth, through Communism, the greatest peace Man has ever known.

Thank you.

CHAPTER I

THE HISTORY AND DEFINITION OF PSYCHOPOLITICS

Although punishment for its own sake may not be entirely without recompense, it is, nevertheless, true that the end and goal of all punishment is the indoctrination of the person being punished with an idea, whether that idea be one of restraint or obedience.

In that any ruler has, from time beyond memory, needed the obedience of his subjects in order to accomplish his ends, he has thus resorted to punishment. This is true of every tribe and state in the history of Man. Today, Russian culture has evolved more certain and definite methods of aligning and securing the loyalties of persons and populates, and of enforcing obedience upon them. This modern outgrowth of old practice is called Psychopolitics.

The stupidity and narrowness of nations not blessed with Russian reasoning has caused them to rely upon practices which are, today, too ancient and out-moded for the rapid and heroic pace of our time. And in view of the tremendous advance of Russian Culture in the field of mental technologies, begun with the glorious work of Pavlov and carried forward so ably by later Russians, it would be strange that an art and science would not evolve totally devoted to the aligning of loyalties and extracting the obedience of individuals and multitudes.

Thus we see that psychopolitical procedures are a natural outgrowth of practices as old as Man, practices which are current in every group of men throughout the world. Thus, in psychopolitical procedures there is no ethical problem, since it is obvious and evident that Man is always coerced against his will to the greater good of the State, whether by economic gains or indoctrination into the wishes and desires of the State.

Basically, Man is an animal. He is an animal which has been given a civilized veneer. Man is a collective animal, grouped together for his own protection before the threat of the environment. Those who so group and control him must then have in their possession specialized techniques to direct the vagaries and energies of the animal Man toward greater efficiency in the accomplishment of the goals of the State.

Psychopolitics, in one form or another, have long been used in Russia, but the subject is all but unknown outside the borders of our nation, save only where we have carefully transplanted our information and where it is used for the greater good of the nation.

The definition of Psychopolitics follows.

Psychopolitics is the art and science of asserting and maintaining dominion over the thoughts and loyalties of individuals, officers, bureaus, and masses, and the effecting of the conquest of enemy nations through "mental healing."

The subject of Psychopolitics breaks down into several categories, each a natural and logical proceeding from the last. Its first subject is the constitution and anatomy of Man, himself, as a political organism. The next is an examination of Man as an economic organism, as this might be controlled by his desires. The next is classification of State goals for the individual and masses. The next is an examination of loyalties. The next is the general subject of obedience. The next is the anatomy of the stimulus-response mechanisms of Man. The next is the subjects of shock and endurance. The next is categories of experience. The next is the catalyzing and aligning of experience. The next is the use of drugs. The next is the use of implantation. The next is the general application of Psychopolitics within Russia. The next is the organization and use of counter-Psychopolitics. The next is the use of Psychopolitics in the conquest of foreign nations. The next is psychopolitical organizations outside Russia, their composition and activity. The next is the creation of slave philosophy in an hostile nation. The next is countering anti-psychopolitical activities abroad, and the final one, the destiny of psychopolitical rule in a scientific age. To this might be added many subcategories, such as the nullification of modern weapons by psychopolitical activity.

The strength and power of Psychopolitics cannot be overestimated, particularly when used in a nation decayed by pseudo-intellectualism, where exploitation of the masses combines readily with psychopolitical actions, and particularly where the greed of Capitalistic or Monarchial regimes has already brought about an overwhelming incidence of neurosis which can be employed as the groundwork for psychopolitical action and a psychopolitical corps.

It is part of your mission, student, to prevent psychopolitical activity to the detriment of the Russian State, just as it is your mission to carry forward in our nation and outside it, if you are so assigned, the missions and goals of Psychopolitics. No agent of Russia could be even remotely effective without a thorough grounding in Psychopolitics, and so you carry forward with you a Russian trust to use well what you are learning here.

CHAPTER II

THE CONSTITUTION OF MAN AS A POLITICAL ORGANISM

Man is already a colonial aggregation of cells, and to consider him an individual would be an error. Colonies of cells have gathered together as one organ or another of the body, and then these organs have, themselves, gathered together to form the whole. Thus we see that man, himself, is already a political organism, even if we do not consider a mass of men.

Sickness could be considered to be a disloyalty to the remaining organisms on the part of one organism. This disloyalty, becoming apparent, brings about a revolt of some part of the anatomy against the remaining whole, and thus we have, in effect, an internal revolution. The heart, becoming disaffected, falls away from close membership and service to the remainder of the organism, and we discover the entire body in all of its activities is disrupted because of the revolutionary activity of the heart. The heart is in revolt because it cannot or will not co-operate with the remainder of the body. If we permit the heart thus to revolt, the kidneys, taking the example of the heart, may in their turn rebel and cease to work for the good of the organism. This rebellion, multiplying to other organs and the glandular system, brings about the death of the "individual." We can see with ease that the revolt is death, that the revolt of any part of the organism results in death. Thus we see that there can be no compromise with rebellion.

Like the "individual" man, the State is a collection of aggregations. The political entities within the State must, all of them, co-operate for the greater good of the State lest the State itself fall asunder and die, for with the disaffection of any single distrust we discover an example set for other districts, and we discover, at length, the entire State falling. This is the danger of revolution.

Look at Earth. We see here one entire organism. The organism of Earth is an individual organism. Earth has as its organs the various races and nations of men. Where one of these is permitted to remain disaffected, Earth itself is threatened with death. The threatened rebellion of one country, no matter how small, against the total organism of Earth, would find Earth sick, and the cultural state of man to suffer in consequence. Thus, the putrescent illness of Capitalist States, spreading their pus and bacteria into the healthy countries of the world would not do otherwise than bring about the death of Earth, unless these ill organisms are brought into loyalty and obedience and made to function for the greater good of the world-wide State.

The constitution of Man is so composed that the individual cannot function efficiently without the alignment of each and every part and organ of his anatomy. As the average individual is incapable, in an unformed and uncultured state, as witness the barbarians of the jungle, so must he be trained into a co-ordination of his organic functions by exercise, education, and work toward specific goals. We particularly and specifically note that the individual must be directed from without to accomplish his exercise, education, and work. He must be made to realize this, for only then can he be made to function efficiently in the role assigned to him.

The tenets of rugged individualism, personal determinism, self-will, imagination, and personal creativeness are alike in the masses antipathetic to the good of the Greater State. These willful and unaligned forces are no more than illnesses which will bring about disaffection, disunity, and at length the collapse of the group to which the individual is attached.

The constitution of Man lends itself easily and thoroughly to certain and positive regulation from without of all of its functions, including those of thinkingness, obedience, and loyalty, and these things must be controlled if a greater State is to ensue.

While it may seem desirable to the surgeon to amputate one or another limb or organ in order to save the remainder, it must be pointed out that this expediency is not entirely possible of accomplishment where one considers entire nations. A body deprived of organs can be observed to be lessened in its effectiveness. The world deprived of the workers now enslaved by the insane and nonsensical idiocies of the Capitalists and Monarchs of Earth, would, if removed, create a certain disability in the world-wide State. Just as we see the victor forced to rehabilitate the population of a conquered country at the end of a war, thus any effort to depopulate a disaffected portion of the world might have some consequence. However, let us consider the inroad of virus and bacteria hostile to the organism, and we see that unless we can conquer the germ, the organ or organism which it is attacking will, itself, suffer.

In any State we have certain individuals who operate in the role of the virus and germ, and these, attacking the population or any group within the population, produce, by their self-willed greed, a sickness in the organ, which then generally spreads to the whole.

The constitution of Man as an individual body, or the constitution of a State or a portion of the State as a political organism are analogous. It is the mission of Psychopolitics first to align the obedience and goals of the group, and then maintain their alignment by the eradication of the effectiveness of the persons and personalities which might swerve the group toward disaffection. In our own nation, where things are better managed and where reason reigns above all else, it is not difficult to eradicate the self-willed bacteria which might attack one of our political entities. But in the field of conquest, in nations less enlightened, where the Russian State does not yet have power, it is not as feasible to remove the entire self-willed individual. Psychopolitics makes it possible to remove that part of his personality which, in itself, is making havoc with the person's own constitution as well as the group with which the person is connected.

If the animal man were permitted to continue undisturbed by counter-revolutionary propaganda, if he were left to work under the well-planned management of the State, we would discover little sickness amongst Man, and we would discover no sickness in the State. But where the individual is troubled by conflicting propaganda, where he is made the effect of revolutionary activities, where he is permitted to think thoughts critical of the State itself, where he is permitted to question of those in whose natural charge he falls, we would discover his constitution to suffer. We would discover, from this disaffection, the additional disaffection of his heart and of other portions of his anatomy. So certain is this principle that when one finds a sick individual, could one search deeply enough, he would discover a mis-aligned loyalty and an interrupted obedience to that person's group unit.

There are those who foolishly have embarked upon some spiritual Alice-in-Wonderland voyage into what they call the "subconscious" or the "unconscious" mind, and who, under the guise of "psychotherapy" would seek to make well the disaffection of body organs, but it is to be noted that their results are singularly lacking in success. There is no strength in such an approach. When hypnotism was first invented in Russia it was observed that all that was necessary was to command the unresisting individual to be well in order, many times, to accomplish that fact. The limitation of hypnotism was that many subjects were not susceptible to its uses, and thus hypnotism has had to be improved upon in order to increase the suggestibility of individuals who would not otherwise be reached. Thus, any nation has had the experience of growing well again, as a whole organism, when placing sufficient force in play against a disaffected group. Just as in hypnotism any organ can be commanded into greater loyalty and obedience, so can any political group be commanded into greater loyalty and obedience should sufficient force be employed. However, force often brings about destruction and it is occasionally not feasible to use broad mass force to accomplish the ends in view. Thus, it is necessary to align the individual against his desire not to conform.

Just as it is a recognized truth that Man must conform to his environment, so it is a recognized truth, and will become more so as the years proceed, that even the body of Man can be commanded into health.

The constitution of Man renders itself peculiarly adapted to re-alignment of loyalties. Where these loyalties are indigestible to the constitution of the individual itself, such as loyalties to the 'petit bourgeoisie,' the Capitalist, to anti-Russian ideas, we find the individual body peculiarly susceptible to sickness, and thus we can clearly understand the epidemics, illnesses, mass-neuroses, tumults and confusions of the United States and other capitalist countries. Here we find the worker improperly and incorrectly loyal, and thus we find the worker ill. To save him and establish him correctly and properly upon his goal toward a greater State, it is an overpowering necessity to make it possible for him to grant his loyalties in a correct direction. In that his loyalties are swerved and his obedience cravenly demanded by persons antipathetic to his general good, and in that these persons are few, even in a Capitalist nation, the goal and direction of Psychopolitics is clearly understood. To benefit the worker in such a plight, it is necessary to eradicate, by general propaganda, by other means, and by his own co-operation, and self-willedness of perverted leaders. It is necessary, as well, to indoctrinate the educated strata into the tenets and principles of co-operation with the environment, and thus to insure to the worker less-warped leadership, less-craven doctrine, and more co-operation with the ideas and ideals of the Communist State.

The technologies of Psychopolitics are directed to this end.

CHAPTER III

MAN AS AN ECONOMIC ORGANISM

Man is subject to certain desires and needs which are as natural to his beingness as they are to that of any other animal. Man, however, has the peculiarity of exaggerating some of these beyond the bounds of reason. This is obvious through the growth of leisure classes, pseudo-intellectual groups, the 'petit bourgeoisie,' Capitalism, and other ills.

It has been said, with truth, that one tenth of a man's life concerned with politics and nine-tenths with economics. Without food, the individual dies. Without clothing, he freezes. Without houses and weapons, he is prey to the starving wolves. The acquisition of sufficient items to answer these necessities of food, clothing, and shelter, in reason, is the natural right of a member of an enlightened State. An excess of such items brings about unrest and disquiet. The presence of luxury items and materials, and the artificial creation and whetting of appetities, as in Capitalist advertising, are certain to accentuate the less-desirable characteristics of Man.

The individual is an economic organism, in that he requires a certain amount of food, a certain amount of water, and must hold within himself a certain amount of heat in order to live. When he has more food than he can eat, more clothing than he needs to protect him, he then enters upon a certain idleness which dulls his wits and awareness, and makes him prey to difficulties which, in a less toxic state, he would have foreseen and avoided. Thus, we have a glut being a menace to the individual.

It is no less different in a group. Where the group acquires too much, its awareness of its own fellows and of the environment is accordingly reduced, and the effectiveness the group in general is lost.

The maintaining of a balance between gluttony and need is the province of Economics proper, and is the fit subject and concern of the Communist State.

Desire and want are a state of mind. Individuals can be educated into desiring and wanting more than they can ever possibly obtain, and such individuals are unhappy. Most of the self-willed characteristics of the Capitalists come entirely from greed. He exploits the worker far beyond any necessity on his own part, as a Capitalist, to need.

In a nation where economic balances are not controlled, the appetite of the individual is unduly whetted by enchanting and fanciful persuasions to desire, and a type of insanity ensues, where each individual is persuaded to possess more than he can use, and to possess it even at the expense of his fellows.

There is, in economic balances, the other side. Too great and too long privation can bring about unhealthy desires, which, in themselves, accumulate if left action, more than the individual can use. Poverty, itself, as carefully cultivated in Capitalist States, can bring about an imbalance of acquisition. Just as a vacuum will pull into it masses, in a country where enforced privation upon the masses is permitted, and where desire is artificially whetted, need turns to greed, and one easily discovers in such states exploitation of the many for the benefit of the few.

If one, by the technologies of Psychopolitics, were to dull this excessive greed in the few who possess it, the worker would be freed to seek a more natural balance.

Here we have two extremes. Either one of them are an insanity. If we wish to create an insanity we need only glut or deprive an individual at long length beyond the ability to withstand and we have a mental imbalance. A simple example of this is the alternation of too low with too high pressures in a chamber, an excellent psychopolitical procedure. The rapidly varied pressure brings about a chaos wherein the individual will cannot act and where other wills then, perforce, assume control.

Essentially, in an entire country, one must remove the greedy by whatever means and must then create and continue a semi-privation in the masses in order to command and utterly control the nation.

A continuous hope for prosperity must be indoctrinated in to the masses with many dreams and visions of glut of commodity and this hope must be counter-played against the actuality of privation and the continuous threat of loss of all economic factors in case of disloyalty to the State in order to suppress the individual wills of the masses.

In a nation under conquest such as America, our slow and stealthy approach need take advantage only of the cycles of booms and depressions inherent in Capitalistic nations in order to assert of more and more strong control over individual wills. A boom is as advantageous as a depression for our ends for during prosperity our propaganda lines must only continue to point up the wealth the period is delivering to the selected few to divorce their control of the state. During a depression one must only point out that it ensued as a result of the avarice of a few and the general political incompetence of the national leaders.

The handling of economic propaganda is not properly the sphere of psychopolitics but the psychopolitician must understand economic measures and Communist goals connected with them.

The masses must at last come to believe that only excessive taxation of the rich can relieve them of the "burdensome leisure class" and can thus be brought to accept such a thing as income tax, a Marxist principle smoothly slid into Capitalistic framework in 1909 in the United States. This even though the basic law of the United States forbade it and even though Communism at that time had been active only a few years in America. Such success as the Income Tax law, had it been followed thoroughly could have brought the United States and not Russia into the world scene as the first Communist nation. But the virility and good sense of the Russian peoples won. It may not be that the United States will become entirely Communist until past the middle of the century but when it does it will be because of our superior understanding of economics and of psychopolitics.

The Communist agent skilled in economics has as his task the suborning of tax agencies and their personnel to create the maximum disturbance and chaos and the passing of laws adapted to our purposes and to him we must leave this task. The psychopolitical operator plays a distinctly different role in this drama.

The rich, the skilled in finance, the well informed in government are particular and individual targets for the psychopolitician. His is the role of taking off the board those individuals who would halt or corrupt Communist economic programs. Thus every rich man, every statesman, every person well informed and capable in government must have brought to his side as a trusted confidant a psychopolitical operator.

The families of these persons are often deranged from idleness and glut and this fact must be played upon, even created. The normal health and wildness of a rich man's son must be twisted and perverted and explained into neurosis and then, assisted by a timely administration of drugs or violence, turned into criminality or insanity. This brings at once some one in "mental healing" into confidential contact with the family and from this point on the very most must then be made of that contact.

Communism could best succeed if at the side of every rich or influential man there could be placed a psychopolitical operator, an undoubted authority in the field of "mental healing" who could then by his advice or through the medium of a wife or daughter by his guided opinions direct the optimum policy to embroil or upset the economic policies of the country and, when the time comes to do away forever with the rich or influential man, to administer the proper drug or treatment to bring about his complete demise in an institution as a patient or dead as a suicide.

Planted beside a country's powerful persons the psychopolitical operator can also guide other policies to the betterment of our battle.

The Capitalist does not know the definition of war. He thinks of war as attack with force performed by soldiers and machines. He does not know that a more effective if somewhat longer war can be fought with bread or, in our case, with drugs and the wisdom of our art. The Capitalist has never won a war in truth. The psychopolitician is having little trouble winning this one.

CHAPTER IV

STATE GOALS FOR THE INDIVIDUAL AND MASSES

Just as we would discover an individual to be ill, whose organs, each one, had a different goal from the rest, so we discover the individuals and the State to be ill where goals are not rigorously codified and enforced.

There are those who, in less enlightened times, gave Man to believe that goals should be personally sought and held, and that, indeed, Man's entire impulse toward higher things stemmed from Freedom. We must remember that the same peoples who embraced this philosophy also continued in Man the myth of spiritual existence.

All goals proceed from duress. Life is a continuous escape. Without force and threat there can be no striving. Without pain there can be no desire to escape from pain. Without the threat of punishment there can be no gain. Without duress and command there can be no alignment of bodily functions. Without rigorous and forthright control, there can be no accomplished goals for the State.

Goals of the State should be formulated by the State for the obedience and concurrence of the individuals within that State. A State without goals so formulated is a sick State. A State without the power and forthright wish to enforce its goals is a sick State.

When an order is issued by the Communist State, and is not obeyed, a sickness will be discovered to ensue. Where obedience fails, the masses suffer.

State goals depend upon loyalty and obedience for their accomplishment. When one discovers a State goal to be interpreted, one discovers inevitably that there has been an interposition of self-willedness, of greed, of idleness, or of rugged individualism and self-centered initiative. The interruption of a State goal will be discovered as having been interrupted by a person whose disloyalty and disobedience is the direct result of his own mis-alignment with life.

It is not always necessary to remove the individual. It is possible to remove his self-willed tendencies to the improvement of the goals and gains of the whole. The technologies of Psychopolitics are graduated upon the scale which starts somewhat above the removal of the individual himself, upward toward the removal only of those tendencies which bring about his lack of co-operation.

It is not enough for the State to have goals. These goals, once put forward, depend for their completion upon the loyalty and obedience of the workers. These, engaged for the most part, in hard labors, have little time for idle speculation, which is good. But, above them, unfortunately, there must be foremen of one or another position, any one of whom might have sufficient idleness and lack of physical occupation to cause some disaffecting independency in his conduct and behaviour.

Psychopolitics remedies this tendency toward disaffection when it exceeds the common persuasions of the immediate superiors of the person in question.

CHAPTER V

AN EXAMINATION OF LOYALTIES

If loyalty is so important in the economic and social structure, it is necessary to examine it further as itself.

In the field of Psychopolitics, loyalty means simply 'alignment.' It means, more fully, alignment with the goals of the Communist State. Disloyalty means entirely mis-alignment, and more broadly, mis-alignment with the goals of the Communist State.

When we consider that the goals of the Communist State are to the best possible benefit of the masses, we can see that disloyalty, as a term, can embrace Democratic alignment. Loyalty to persons not communistically indoctrinated would be quite plainly a mis-alignment.

The cure of disloyalty is entirely contained in the principles of alignment. All that it is necessary to do, where disloyalty is encountered, is to align the purposes of the individual toward the goals of Communism, and it will be discovered that a great many circumstances hitherto distasteful in his existence will cease to exist.

A heart, or a kidney in rebellion against the remainder of the organism is being disloyal to the remainder of the organism. To cure that heart or kidney it is actually only necessary to bring its activities into alignment with the remainder of the body.

The technologies of Psychopolitics adequately demonstrate the workability of this. Mild shock of the electric variety can, and does, produce the re-cooperation of a rebellious body organ. It is the shock and punishment of surgery which, in the main, accomplishes the re-alignment of a disaffected portion of the body, rather than the surgery itself. It is the bombardment of X-Rays, rather than the therapeutic value of X-Rays which causes some disaffected organ to once again turn its attention to the support of the general organism.

While it is not borne out that electric shock has any therapeutic value, so far as making the individual more sane, it is adequately brought out that its punishment value will create in the patient a greater co-operative attitude.

Brain surgery has no statistical data to recommend it beyond its removal of the individual personality from amongst the paths of organs which were not permitted to co-operate. These two Russian developments have never pretended to alter the state of sanity. They are only effective and workable in introducing an adequate punishment mechanism to the personality to make it cease and desist from its courses and egotistical direction of the anatomy itself. It is the violence of the electric shock and the surgery which is useful in subduing the recalcitrant personality, which is all that stands in the road of the masses or the State. It is occasionally to be discovered that the removal of the preventing personality by shock and surgery then permits the regrowth and re-establishment of organs which have been rebelled against by that personality. In that a well-regulated state is composed of organisms, not personalities, the use of electric shock and brain surgery in Psychopolitics is clearly demonstrated.

The changing of loyalty consists, in its primary step, of the eradication of existing loyalties. This can be done in one of two ways. First, by demonstrating that previously existing loyalties have brought about perilous physical circumstances, such as imprisonment, lack of recognition, duress, or privation, and second, by eradicating the personality itself.

The first is accomplished by a steady and continuous indoctrination of the individual in the belief that his previous loyalties have been granted to an unworthy source. One of the primary instances in this is creating circumstances which apparently derive from the target of his loyalties, so as to rebuff the individual. As part of this there is the creation of a state of mind in the individual, by actually placing him under duress, and then furnishing him with false evidence to demonstrate that the target of his previous loyalties is, itself, the cause of the duress. Another portion of this same method consists of defaming or degrading the individual whose loyalties are to be changed to the target of his loyalties, i.e., superiors or government, to such a degree that this target, at length, actually does hold the individual in disrepute, and so does rebuff him and serve to convince him that his loyalties have been misplaced. These are the milder methods, but have proven extremely effective. The greatest drawback in their practice is that they require time and concentration, the manufacture of false evidence, and a psychopolitical operator's time.

In moments of expediency, of which there are many, the personality itself can be rearranged by shock, surgery, duress, privation, and in particular, that best of psychopolitical techniques, implantation, with the technologies of neo-hypnotism. Such duress must have in its first part a defamation of the loyalties, and in its second, the implantation of new loyalties. A good and experienced psychopolitical operator, working under the most favorable circumstances, can, by the use of psychopolitical technologies, alter the loyalties of an individual so deftly that his own companions will not suspect that they have changed. This, however, requires considerably more finesse than is usually necessary to the situation. Mass neo-hypnotism can accomplish more or less the same results when guided by an experienced psychopolitical operator. An end goal in such a procedure would be the alteration of the loyalties of an entire nation in a short period of time by mass neo-hypnotism, a thing which has been effectively accomplished among the less-usable states of Russia.

It is adequately demonstrated that loyalty is entirely lacking in that mythical commodity known as 'spiritual quality.' Loyalty is entirely a thing of dependence, economic or mental, and can be changed by the crudest implementations. Observation of workers in their factories or fields demonstrates that they easily grant loyalty to a foreman or a woman, and then as easily abandon it and substitute another individual, revolting, at the same time, toward the person to whom loyalty was primarily granted. The queasy insecurity of the masses in Capitalistic nations finds this more common than in an enlightened State such as Russia. In Capitalistic states, dependencies are so craven, wants and privations are so exaggerated, that loyalty is entirely without ethical foundation and exists only in the realm of dependency, duress, or demand.

It is fortunate that Communism so truly approaches an ideal state of mind, for this brings a certain easiness into any changing of loyalties, since all other philosophies extant and practiced on Earth today are degraded and debased, compared to Communism. It is then with a certain security that a psychopolitical operator functions, for he knows that he can change the loyalty of an individual to a more ideal level by reason alone, and only expediency makes it necessary to employ the various shifts of psychopolitical technology. Any man who cannot be persuaded into Communist rationale is, of course, to be regarded as somewhat less than sane, and it is, therefore completely justified to use the techniques of insanity upon the non-Communist.

In order to change loyalty it is necessary to establish first the existing loyalties of the individual. The task is made very simple in view of the fact that Capitalistic and Fascistic nations have no great security in the loyalty of their subjects. And it may be found that the loyalties of the subjects, as we call any person against whom psychopolitical technology is to be exerted, are already too faint to require eradication. It is generally only necessary to persuade with the rationale and overwhelming reasonability of Communism to have the person grant his loyalty to the Russian State. However, regulated only by the importance of the subject, no great amount of time should be expended upon the individual, but emotional duress, or electric shock, or brain surgery should be resorted to, should Communist propaganda persuasion fail. In a case of a very important person, it may be necessary to utilize the more delicate technologies of Psychopolitics so as to place the person himself, and his associates, in ignorance of the operation. In this case a simple implantation is used, with a maximum duress and command value. Only the most skilled psychopolitical operator should be employed on such a project, as in this case of the very important person, for a bungling might disclose the tampering with his mental processes. It is much more highly recommended, if there is any doubt whatever about the success of an operation against an important person, to select out as a psychopolitical target persons in his vicinity in whom he is emotionally involved. His wife or children normally furnish the best targets, and these can be operated against without restraint. In securing the loyalty of a very important person one must place at his side a constant pleader who enters a sexual or familial chord into the situation on the side of Communism. It may not be necessary to make a Communist out of the wife, or the children, or one of the children, but it might prove efficacious to do so. In most instances, however, this is not possible. By the use of various drugs, it is, in this modern age, and well within the realm of psychopolitical reality, entirely too easy to bring about a state of severe neurosis or insanity in the wife or children, and thus pass them, with full consent of the important person, and the government in which he exists, or the bureau in which he is operating, into the hands of a psychopolitical operator, who then in his own laboratory, without restraint or fear of investigation or censor, can, with electric shock, surgery, sexual attack, drugs, or other useful means, degrade or entirely alter the personality of a family member, and create in that person a psychopolitical slave subject who, then, on command or signal, will perform outrageous actions, thus discrediting the important person, or will demand, on a more delicate level, that certain measures be taken by the important person, which measures are, of course, dictated by the psychopolitical operator.

Usually when the party has no real interest in the activities or decisions of the important person, but merely wishes to remove him from effective action, the attention of the psychopolitical operator need not be so intense, and the person need only be passed into the hands of some unwitting mental practitioner, who taught as he is by psychopolitical operators, will bring about sufficient embarrassment.

When the loyalty of an individual cannot be swerved, and where the opinion, weight, or effectiveness of the individual stands firmly in the road of Communist goals, it is usually best to occasion a mild neurosis in the person by any available means, and then, having carefully given him a history of mental imbalance, to see to it that he disposes of himself by suicide, or by bringing about his demise in such a way as to resemble suicide. Psychopolitical operators have handled such situations skillfully tens of thousands of times within and without Russia.

It is a firm principle of Psychopolitics that the person to be destroyed must be involved at first or second hand in the stigma of insanity, and must have been placed in contact with psychopolitical operators or persons trained by them, with a maximum amount of tumult and publicity. The stigma of insanity is properly placed at the door of such persons' reputations and is held there firmly by bringing about irrational acts, either on his own part or in his vicinity. Such an activity can be classified as a partial destruction of alignment, and if this destruction is carried forward to its furthest extent the mis-alignment on the subject of all loyalties can be considered to be complete, and alignment on new loyalties can be embarked upon safely. By bringing about insanity or suicide on the part of the wife of an important political personage, a sufficient mis-alignment has been instigated to change his attitude. And this, carried forward firmly, or assisted by psychopolitical implantation can begin the rebuilding of his loyalties, but now slanted in a more proper and fitting direction.

Another reason for the alignment of psychopolitical activities with the mis-alignment of insanity is that insanity, itself, is a despised and disgraced state, and anything connected with it is lightly viewed. Thus, a psychopolitical operator, working in the vicinity of an insane person, can refute and disprove any accusations made against him by demonstrating that the family itself is tainted with mental imbalance. This is surprisingly effective in Capitalistic countries where insanity is so thoroughly feared that no one would dream of investigating any circumstances in its vicinity. Psychopolitical propaganda works constantly and must work constantly to increase and build up this aura of mystery surrounding insanity, and must emphasize the horribleness and hopelessness of insanity in order to excuse non-therapeutic actions taken against the insane. Particularly in Capitalistic countries, an insane person has no rights under law. No person who is insane may hold property. No person who is insane may testify. Thus, we have an excellent road along which we can travel toward our certain goal and destiny.

Entirely by bringing about public conviction that the sanity of a person is in question, it is possible to discount and eradicate all of the goals and activities of that person. By demonstrating the insanity of a group, or even a government, it is possible, then, to cause its people to disavow it. By magnifying the general human reaction to insanity, through keeping the subject of insanity, itself, forever before the public eye, and then, by utilizing this reaction by causing a revulsion on the part of a populace against its leader or leaders, it is possible to stop any government or movement.

It is important to know that the entire subject of loyalty is thus as easily handled as it is. One of the first and foremost missions of the psychopolitician is to make an attack upon Communism and insanity synonymous. It should become the definition of insanity, of the paranoid variety, that "A paranoid believes he is being attacked by Communists." Thus, at once the support of the individual so attacking Communism will fall away and wither.

Instead of executing national leaders, suicide for them should be arranged under circumstances which question their demise. In this way we can select out all opposition to the Communist extension into the social orders of the world, and render populaces who would oppose us leaderless, and bring about a state of chaos or mis-alignment into which we can thrust, with great simplicity, the clear and forceful doctrines of Communism.

The cleverness of our attack in this field of Psychopolitics is adequate to avoid the understanding of the layman and the usual stupid official, and by operating entirely under the banner of authority, with the oft-repeated statement that the principles of psychotherapy are too devious for common understanding, an entire revolution can be effected without the suspicion of a populace until it is an accomplished fact.

As insanity is the maximum mis-alignment, it can be grasped to be the maximum weapon in severance of loyalties to leaders and old social orders. Thus, it is of the utmost importance that psychopolitical operatives infiltrate the healing arts of a nation marked for conquest, and bring from that quarter continuous pressure against the population and the government until at last the conquest is affected. This is the subject and goal of Psychopolitics, itself.

In rearranging loyalties we must have a command of their values. In the animal the first loyalty is to himself. This is destroyed by demonstrating errors to him, showing him that he does not remember, cannot act or does not trust himself. The second loyalty is to his family unit, his parents and brothers and sisters. This is destroyed by making a family unit economically non-dependent, by lessening the value of marriage, by making an easiness of divorce and by raising the children wherever possible by the State. The next loyalty is to his friends and local environment. This is destroyed by lowering his trust and bringing about reportings upon him allegedly by his fellows or the town or village authorities. The next is to the State and this, for the purposes of Communism, is the only loyalty which should exist once the state is founded as a Communist State. To destroy loyalty to the State all manner of forbiddings for youth must be put into effect so as to disenfranchise them as members of the Capitalist state and, by promises of a better lot under Communism, to gain their loyalty to a Communist movement.

Denying a Capitalist country easy access to courts, bringing about and supporting propaganda to destroy the home, creating and continuous juvenile delinquency, forcing upon the state all manner of practices to divorce the child from it will in the end create the chaos necessary to Communism.

Under the saccharine guise of assistance to them, rigorous child labor laws are the best means to deny the child any right in the society. By refusing to let him earn, by forcing him into unwanted dependence upon a grudging parent, by making certain in other channels that the parent is never in other than economic stress, the child can be driven in his teens into revolt. Delinquency will ensue.

By making readily available drugs of various kinds, by giving the teen-ager alcohol, by praising his wildness, by stimulating him with sex literature and advertising to him or her practices as taught at the Sexpol, the psychopolitical operator can create the necessary attitude of chaos, idleness and worthlessness into which can then be cast the solution which will give the teen-ager complete freedom everywhere—Communism.

Should it be possible to continue conscription beyond any reasonable time by promoting unpopular wars and other means the draft can always stand as a further barrier to the progress of youth in life, destroying any immediate hope to participate in his nation's civil life.

By these means the patriotism of youth for their Capitalistic flag can be dulled to a point where they are no longer dangerous as soldiers. While this might require many decades to effect, Capitalism's short term view will never envision the lengths across which we can plan.

If we could effectively kill the national pride and patriotism of just one generation we will have won that country. Therefore there must be continual propaganda abroad to undermine the loyalty of the citizens in general and the teen ager in particular.

The role of the psychopolitical operator in this is very strong. He can, from his position as an authority on the mind, advise all manner of destructive measures. He can teach the lack of control of this child at home. He can instruct, in an optimum situation, the entire nation in how to handle children—and instruct them so that the children, given no control, given no real home, can run wildly about with no responsibility for their nation or themselves.

The mis-alignment of the loyalty of youth to a Capitalistic nation sets the proper stage for a realignment of their loyalties with Communism. Creating a greed for drugs, sexual misbehavior and uncontrolled freedom and presenting this to them as a benefit of Communism will with ease bring about our alignment.

In the case of strong leaders amongst youthful groups, a psychopolitical operator can work in many ways to use or discard that leadership. If it is to be used, the character of the girl or boy must be altered carefully into criminal channels and a control by blackmail or other means must be maintained. But where the leadership is not susceptible, where it resists all persuasions and might become dangerous to our Cause, no pains must be spared to direct the attention of the authorities to that person and to harrass him in one way or another until he can come into the hands of juvenile authorities. When this has been effected it can be hoped that a psychopolitical operator, by reason of child advisor status, can, in the security of the jail and cloaked by processes of law, destroy the sanity of that person. Particularly brilliant scholars, athletes and youth group leaders must be handled in either one of these two ways.

In the matter of guiding the activities of juvenile courts, the psychopolitical operator entertains here one of his easier tasks. A Capitalistic nation is so filled with injustice in general that a little more passes without comment. In juvenile courts there are always persons with strange appetites whether these be judges or police men or women. If such do not exist they can be created. By making available to them young girls or boys in the "security" of the jail or the detention home and by appearing with flash cameras or witnesses one becomes equipt with a whip adequate to direct all the future decisions of that person when these are needed.

The handling of youth cases by courts should be led further and further away from law and further and further into "mental problems" until the entire nation thinks of "mental problems" instead of criminals. This places vacancies everywhere in the courts, in the offices of district attorneys, on police staffs which could then be filled with psychopolitical operators and these become then the judges of the land by their influence and into their hands comes the total control of the criminal, without whose help a revolution cannot ever be accomplished.

By stressing this authority over the problems of youth and adults in courts one day the demand for psychopolitical operators could become such that even the armed services will use "authorities on the mind" to work their various justices and when this occurs the armed forces of the nation then enter into our hands as solidly as if we commanded them ourselves. With the slight bonus of having thus a skilled interrogator near every technician or handler of secret war apparatus, the country, in event of revolution, as did Germany in 1918 and 1919 will find itself immobilized by its own Army and Navy fully and entirely in Communist hands.

Thus the subject of loyalties and their re-alignment is in fact the subject of non-armed conquest of an enemy.

CHAPTER VI

THE GENERAL SUBJECT OF OBEDIENCE

Obedience is the result of force.

Everywhere we look in the history of Earth we discover that obedience to new rulers has come about entirely through the demonstration on the part of those rulers of greater force than was to be discovered in the old ruler. A population overridden, conquered by war, is obedient to its conqueror. It is obedient to its conqueror because its conqueror has exhibited more force.

Concurrent with force is brutality, for there are human considerations involved which also represent force. The most barbaric, unrestrained, brutal use of force, if carried far enough, invokes obedience. Savage force, sufficiently long displayed toward any individual, will bring about his concurrence with any principle or order.

Force is the antithesis of humanizing actions. It is so synonymous in the human mind with savageness, lawlessness, brutality, and barbarism, that it is only necessary to display an inhuman attitude toward people, to be granted by those people the possession of force.

Any organization which has the spirit and courage to display inhumanity, savageness, brutality, and an uncompromising lack of humanity, will be obeyed. Such a use of force is, itself, the essential ingredient of greatness. We have to hand no less an example than our great Communist Leaders, who, in moments of duress and trial, when faced by Czarist rule, continued over the heads of an enslaved populace, yet displayed sufficient courage never to stay their hands in the execution of the conversion of the Russian State to Communist rule.

If you would have obedience you must have no compromise with humanity. If you would have obedience you must make it clearly understood that you have no mercy. Man is an animal. He understands, in the final analysis, only those things which a brute understands.

As an example of this, we find an individual refusing to obey and being struck. His refusal to obey is now less vociferous. He is struck again, and his resistance is lessened once more. He is hammered and pounded again and again, until, at length, his only thought is direct and implicit obedience to that person from whom the force has emanated. This is a proven principle. It is proven because it is the main principle Man, the animal, has used since his earliest beginnings. It is the only principle which has been effective, the only principle which has brought about a wide and continued belief. For it is to our benefit that an individual who is struck again, and again, and again from a certain source, will, at length, hypnotically believe anything he is told by the source of the blows.

The stupidity of Western civilizations is best demonstrated by the fact that they believe hypnotism is a thing of the mind, of attention, and a desire for unconsciousness. This is not true. Only when a person has been beaten, punished, and mercilessly hammered, can hypnotism upon him be guaranteed in its effectiveness. It is stated by Western authorities on hypnosis that only some twenty percent of the people are susceptible to hypnotism. This statement is very untrue. Given enough punishment, all of the people in any time and place are susceptible to hypnotism. In other words, by adding force, hypnotism is made uniformly effective. Where unconsciousness could not be induced by simple concentration upon the hypnotist, unconsciousness can be induced by drugs, by blows, by electric shock, and by other means. And where unconsciousness cannot be induced so as to make an implantation or an hypnotic command effective, it is only necessary to amputate the functioning portions of the animal man's brain to render him null and void and no longer a menace. Thus, we find that hypnotism is entirely effective.

The mechanisms of hypnotism demonstrate clearly that people can be made to believe in certain conditions, and even in their environment or in politics, by the administration of force. Thus, it is necessary for a psychopolitician to be an expert in the administration of forces. Thus, he can bring about implicit obedience, not only on the part of individual members of the populace, but on the entire populace itself and its government. He need only take unto himself a sufficiently savage role, a sufficiently uncompromising inhuman attitude, and he will be obeyed and believed.

The subject of hypnotism is a subject of belief. What can people be made to believe? They can be made to believe anything which is administered to them with sufficient brutality and force. The obedience of a populace is as good as they will believe.

Despicable religions, such as Christianity, knew this. They knew that if enough faith could be brought into being a populace could be enslaved by the Christian mockeries of humanity and mercy, and thus could be disarmed. But one need not count upon this act of faith to bring about a broad belief. One must only exhibit enough force, enough inhumanity, enough brutality and savageness to create implicit belief and therefore and thereby implicit obedience. As Communism is a matter of belief, its study is a study of force.

The earliest Russian psychiatrists, pioneering this science of psychiatry, understood thoroughly that hypnosis is induced by acute fear. They discovered it could also be induced by shock of an emotional nature, and also by extreme privation, as well as by blows and drugs.

In order to induce a high state of hypnogy in an individual, a group, or a population, an element of terror must always be present on the part of those who would govern. The psychiatrist is aptly suited to this role, for his brutalities are committed in the name of science and are inexplicably complex, and entirely out of view of the human understanding. A sufficient popular terror of the psychiatrist will, in itself, bring about insanity on the part of many individuals. A psychopolitical operative, then, can, entirely cloaked with authority, commence and continue a campaign of propaganda, describing various "treatments" which are administered to the insane. A psychopolitical operative should at all times insist that these treatments are therapeutic and necessary. He can, in all of his literature and his books, list large numbers of pretended cures by these means. But these "cures" need not actually produce any recovery from a state of disturbance. As long as the psychopolitical operative or his dupes are the only authorities as to the difference between sanity and insanity, their word as to the therapeutic value of such treatment will be the final word. No layman would dare adventure to place judgment upon the state of sanity of an individual whom the psychiatrist has already declared insane. The individual, himself, is unable to complain, and his family, as will be covered later, is already discredited by the occurrence of insanity in their midst. There must be no other adjudicators of insanity, otherwise it could be disclosed that the brutalities practiced in the name of treatment are not therapeutic.

A psychopolitical operative has no interest in "therapeutic means" or "cures." The greater number of insane in the country where he is operating, the larger number of the populace will come under his view, and the greater will become his facilities. Because the problem is apparently mounting into uncontrollable heights, he can more and more operate in an atmosphere of emergency, which again excuses his use of such treatments as electric shock, the pre-frontal lobotomy, trans-orbital leucotomy, and other operations long-since practiced in Russia on political prisoners.

It is to the interest of the psychopolitical operative that the possibility of curing the insane be outlawed and ruled out at all times. For the sake of obedience on the part of the population and their general reaction, a level or brutality must, at all costs, be maintained. Only in this way can the absolute judgment of the psychopolitical operative as to the sanity or insanity of public figures be maintained in complete belief. Using sufficient brutality upon their patients, the public at large will come to believe utterly anything they say about their patients. Furthermore, and much more important, the field of the mind must be sufficiently dominated by the psychopolitical operative, so that wherever tenets of the mind are taught they will be hypnotically believed. The psychopolitical operative, having under his control all psychology classes in an area, can thus bring about a complete reformation of the future leaders of a country in their educational processes, and so prepare them for Communism.

To be obeyed, one must be believed. If one is sufficiently believed, one will unquestioningly be obeyed.

When he is fortunate enough to obtain into his hands anyone near to a political or important figure, this factor of obedience becomes very important. A certain amount of fear or terror must be engendered in the person under treatment so that this person will then take immediate orders, completely and unquestioningly, from the psychopolitical operative, and so be able to influence the actions of that person who is to be reached.

Bringing about this state of mind on the part of a populace and its leaders—that a psychopolitical operative must, at all times, be believed—could eventually be attended by very good fortune. It is not too much to hope that psychopolitical operatives would then, in a country such as the United States, become the most intimate advisors to political figures, even to the point of advising the entirety of a political party as to its actions in an election.

The long view is the important view. Belief is engendered by a certain amount of fear and terror from an authoritative level, and this will be followed by obedience.

The general propaganda which would best serve Psychopolitics would be a continual insistence that certain authoritative levels of healing, deemed this or that the correct treatment of insanity. These treatments must always include a certain amount of brutality. Propaganda should continue and stress the rising incidence of insanity in a country. The entire field of human behaviour, for the benefit of the country, can, at length, be broadened into abnormal behaviour. Thus, anyone indulging in any eccentricity, particularly the eccentricity of combatting psychopolitics, could be silenced by the authoritative opinion on the part of a psychopolitical operative that he was acting in an abnormal fashion. This, with some good fortune, could bring the person into the hands of the psychopolitical operative so as to forever more disable him, or to swerve his loyalties by pain-drug hypnotism.

On the subject of obedience itself, the most optimum obedience is unthinking obedience. The command given must be obeyed without any rationalizing on the part of the subject. The command must, therefore, be implanted below the thinking processes of the subject to be influenced, and must react upon him in such a way as to bring no mental alertness on his part.

It is in the interest of Psychopolitics that a population be told that an hypnotized person will not do anything against his actual will, will not commit immoral acts, and will not act so as to endanger himself. While this may be true of light, parlour hypnotism, it certainly is not true of commands implanted with the use of electric shock, drugs, or heavy punishment. It is counted upon completely that this will be discredited to the general public by psychopolitical operatives, for if it were to be generally known that individuals would obey commands harmful to themselves, and would commit immoral acts while under the influence of deep hypnotic commands, the actions of many people, working unknowingly in favor of Communism, would be too-well understood. People acting under deep hypnotic commands should be acting apparently of their own volition and out of their own convictions.

The entire subject of psychopolitical hypnosis, Psychopolitics in general, depends for its defense upon continuous protest from authoritative sources that such things are not possible. And, should anyone unmask a psychopolitical operative, he should at once declare the whole thing a physical impossibility, and use his authoritative position to discount any accusation. Should any writings of Psychopolitics come to view, it is only necessary to brand them a hoax and laugh them out of countenance. Thus, psychopolitical activities are easy to defend.

When psychopolitical activities have reached a certain peak, from there on it is almost impossible to undo them, for the population is already under the duress of obedience to the psychopolitical operatives and their dupes. The ingredient of obedience is important, for the complete belief in the psychopolitical operative renders his statement cancelling any challenge about psychopolitical operations irrefutable. The optimum circumstances would be to occupy every position which would be consulted by officials on any question or suspicion arising on the subject of Psychopolitics. Thus, a psychiatric advisor should be placed near to hand in every government operation. As all suspicions would then be referred to him, no action would ever be taken, and the goal of Communism could be realized in that nation.

Psychopolitics depends, from the viewpoint of the layman, upon its fantastic aspects. These are its best defense, but above all these defenses is implicit obedience on the part of officials and the general public, because of the character of the psychopolitical operative in the field of healing.

CHAPTER VII

ANATOMY OF STIMULUS-RESPONSE MECHANISMS OF MAN

Man is a stimulus-response animal. His entire reasoning capabilities, even his ethics and morals, depend upon stimulus-response machinery. This has long been demonstrated by such Russians as Pavlov, and the principles have long been used in handling the recalcitrant, in training children, and in bringing about a state of optimum behaviour on the part of a population.

Having no independent will of his own, Man is easily handled by stimulus-response mechanisms. It is only necessary to install a stimulus into the mental anatomy of Man to have that stimulus reactivate and respond any time an exterior command source calls it into being.

The mechanisms of stimulus-response are easily understood. The body takes pictures of every action in the environment around an individual. When the environment includes brutality, terror, shock, and other such activities, the mental image picture gained contains in itself all the ingredients of the environment. If the individual, himself, was injured during that moment, the injury, itself, will re-manifest when called upon to respond by an exterior command source.

As an example of this, if an individual is beaten, and is told during the entirety of the beating that he must obey certain officials, he will, in the future, feel the beginnings of the pain the moment he begins to disobey. The installed pain, itself, reacts as a policeman, for the experience of the individual demonstrates to him that he cannot combat, and will receive pain from, certain officials.

The mind can become very complex in its stimulus responses. As easily demonstrated in hypnotism, an entire chain of commands, having to do with a great many complex actions, can be beaten, shocked, or terrorized into a mind, and will there lie dormant until called into view by some similarity in the circumstances of the environment to the incident of punishment.

The stimulus we call the "incident of punishment" where the response mechanism need only contain some small part of the stimulus to call into view the mental image picture, and cause it to exert against the body, the pain sequence. So long as the individual obeys the picture, or follows the commands of the stimulus implantation he is free from pain.

The behaviour of children is regulated in this fashion in every civilized country. The father, finding himself unable to bring about immediate obedience and training on the part of his child, resorts to physical violence, and after administering punishment of a physical nature to the child on several occasions, is gratified to experience complete obedience on the part of the child each time the father speaks. In that parents are wont to be lenient with their children, they seldom administer sufficient punishment to bring about entirely optimum obedience. The ability of the organism to withstand punishment is very great. Complete and implicit response can be gained only by stimuli sufficiently brutal to actually injure the organism. The Kossack method of breaking wild horses is a useful example. The horse will not restrain itself or take any of its rider's commands. The rider, wishing to break it, mounts, and takes a flask of strong Vodka, and smashes it between the horse's ears. The horse, struck to its knees, its eyes filled with alcohol, mistaking the dampness for blood, instantly and thereafter gives its attention to the rider and never needs further breaking. Difficulty in breaking horses is only occasioned when light punishments are administered. There is some mawkish sentimentality about "breaking the spirit," but what is desired here is an obedient horse, and sufficient brutality brings about an obedient horse.

The stimulus-response mechanisms of the body are such that the pain and the command subdivide so as to counter each other. The mental image picture of the punishment will not become effective upon the individual unless the command content is disobeyed. It is pointed out in many early Russian writings that this is a survival mechanism. It has already been well and thoroughly used in the survival of Communism.

It is only necessary to deliver into the organism a sufficient stimulus to gain an adequate response.

So long as the organism obeys the stimulus whenever it is restimulated in the future, it does not suffer from the pain of the stimulus. But should it disobey the command content of the stimulus, the stimulus reacts to punish the individual. Thus, we have an optimum circumstance, and one of the basic principles of Psychopolitics. A sufficiently installed stimulus will thereafter remain as a police mechanism within the individual to cause him to follow the commands and directions given to him. Should he fail to follow these commands and directions, the stimulus mechanism will go into action. As the commands are there with the moment of duress, the commands themselves need never be repeated, and if the individual were to depart thousands of miles away from the psychopolitical operative, he will still obey the psychopolitical operative, or, himself, become extremely ill and in agony. These principles, built from the earliest days of Pavlov, by constant and continuous Russian development, have, at last, become of enormous use to us in our conquest. For less modern and well-informed countries of Earth, lacking this mechanism, failing to understand it, and coaxed into somnolence by our own psychopolitical operatives, who discount and disclaim it, cannot avoid succumbing to it.

The body is less able to resist a stimulus if it has insufficient food and is weary. Therefore, it is necessary to administer all such stimuli to individuals when their ability to resist has been reduced by privation and exhaustion. Refusal to let them sleep over many days, denying them adequate food, then brings about an optimum state for the receipt of a stimulus. If the person is then given an electrical shock, and is told while the shock is in action that he must obey and do certain things, he has no choice but to do them, or to re-experience, because of his mental image picture of it, the electric shock. This highly scientific and intensely workable mechanism cannot be over-estimated in the practice of psychopolitics.

Drugging the individual produces an artificial exhaustion, and if he is drugged, or shocked and beaten, and given a string of commands, his loyalties, themselves, can be definitely rearranged. This is P.D.H., or Pain-Drug Hypnosis.

The psychopolitical operative in training should be thoroughly studied in the subject of hypnotism and post-hypnotic suggestion. He should pay particular attention to the "forgetter mechanism" aspect of hypnotism, which is to say, implantation in the unconscious mind. He should note particularly that a person given a command in an hypnotic state, and then told when still in that condition to forget it, will execute it on a stimulus-response signal in the environment after he has "awakened" from his hypnotic trance.

Having mastered these details fully, he should, by practicing upon criminals and prisoners, or inmates available to him, produce the hypnotic trance by drugs, and drive home post-hypnotic suggestions by pain administered to the drugged person. He should then study the reactions of the person when "awakened," and should give him the stimulus-response signal which would throw into action the commands given while in a drugged state of duress. By much practice he can then learn the threshold dosages of various drugs, and the amount of duress in terms of electric shock or additional drug shock necessary to produce the optimum obedience to the commands. He should also satisfy himself that there is no possible method known to Man—there must be no possible method known to Man—of bringing the patient into awareness of what has happened to him, keeping him in a state of obedience and response while ignorant of its cause.

Using criminals and prisoners, the psychopolitical operative in training should then experiment with duress in the absence of privation, administering electric shocks, beatings, and terror-inducing tactics, accompanied by the same mechanisms as those employed in hypnotism, and watch the conduct of the person when no longer under duress.

The operative in training should carefully remark those who show a tendency to protest, so that he may recognize possible recovery of memory of the commands implanted. Purely for his own education, he should then satisfy himself as to the efficacy of brain surgery in disabling the non-responsive prisoner.

The boldness of the psychopolitical operative can be increased markedly by permitting persons who have been given pain-drug hypnosis and who have demonstrated symptoms of rebelling or recalling into the society to observe how the label of "insanity" discredits and discounts the statements of the person.

Exercises in bringing about insanity seizures at will, simply by demonstrating a signal to persons upon whom pain-drug hypnosis has been used, and exercises in making the seizures come about through talking to certain persons in certain places and times should also be used.

Brain surgery, as developed in Russia, should also be practiced by the psychopolitical operative in training, to give him full confidence in 1) the crudeness with which it can be done, 2) the certainty of erasure of the stimulus-response mechanism itself, 3) the production of imbecility, idiocy, and dis-coordination on the part of the patient, and 4) the small amount of comment which casualties in brain surgery occasion.

Exercises in sexual attack on patients should be practiced by the psychopolitical operative to demonstrate the inability of the patient under pain-drug hypnosis to recall the attack, while indoctrinating a lust for further sexual activity on the part of the patient. Sex, in all animals, is a powerful motivator, and is no less so in the animal Man, and the occasioning of sexual liaison between females of a target family and indicated males, under the control of the psychopolitical operative, must be demonstrated to be possible with complete security for the psychopolitical operative, thus giving into his hands an excellent weapon for the breaking down of familial relations and consequent public disgraces for the psychopolitical target.

Just as a dog can be trained, so can a man be trained. Just as a horse can be trained, so can a man be trained. Sexual lust, masochism, and any other desirable perversion can be induced by pain-drug hypnosis and the benefit of Psychopolitics.

The changes of loyalties, allegiances, and sources of command can be occasioned easily by psychopolitical technologies, and these should be practiced and understood by the psychopolitical operative before he begins to tamper with psychopolitical targets of magnitude.

The actual simplicity of the subject of pain-drug hypnosis, the use of electric shock, drugs, insanity-producing injections, and other materials, should be masked entirely by technical nomenclature, the protest of benefit to the patient, by an authoritarian pose and position, and by carefully cultivating governmental positions in the country to be conquered.

Although the psychopolitical operative working in universities where he can direct the curricula of psychology classes is often tempted to teach some of the principles of Psychopolitics to the susceptible students in the psychology classes, he must be thoroughly enjoined to limit his information in psychology classes to the transmittal of the tenets of Communism under the guise of psychology, and must limit his activities in bringing about a state of mind on the part of the students where they will accept Communist tenets as those of their own action and as modern scientific principles. The psychological operative must not, at any time, educate students fully in stimulus-response mechanisms, and must not impart to them, save those who will become his fellow-workers, the exact principles of Psychopolitics. It is not necessary to do so, and it is dangerous.

CHAPTER VIII

DEGRADATION, SHOCK AND ENDURANCE

Degradation and conquest are companions.

In order to be conquered, a nation must be degraded, either by acts of war, by being overrun, by being forced into humiliating treaties of peace, or by the treatment of her populace under the armies of the conqueror. However, degradation can be accomplished much more insidiously and much more effectively by consistent and continual defamation.

Defamation is the best and foremost weapon of Psychopolitics on the broad field. Continual and constant degradation of national leaders, national institutions, national practices, and national heroes must be systematically carried out, but this is the chief function of Communist Party Members, in general, not the psychopolitician.

The realm of defamation and degradation, of the psychopolitician, is Man himself. By attacking the character and morals of Man himself, and by bringing about, through contamination of youth, a general degraded feeling, command of the populace is facilitated to a very marked degree.

There is a curve of degradation which leads downward to a point where the endurance of an individual is almost at end, and any sudden action toward him will place him in a state of shock. Similarly, a soldier held prisoner can be abused, denied, defamed, and degraded until the slightest motion on the part of his captors will cause him to flinch. Similarly, the slightest word on the part of his captors will cause him to obey, or vary his loyalties and beliefs. Given sufficient degradation, a prisoner can be caused to murder his fellow countrymen in the same stockade. Experiments on German prisoners have lately demonstrated that only after seventy days of filthy food, little sleep, and nearly untenable quarters, that the least motion toward the prisoner would bring about a state of shock beyond his endurance threshold, and would cause him to hypnotically receive anything said to him. Thus, it is possible, in an entire stockade of prisoners, to the number of thousands, to bring about a state of complete servile obedience, and without the labor of personally addressing each one, to pervert their loyalties and implant in them adequate commands to insure their future conduct, even when released to their own people.

By lowering the endurance of a person, a group, or a nation, and by constant degradation and defamation, it is possible to induce, thus, a state of shock which will receive adequately any command given.

The first thing to be degraded in any nation is the state of Man, himself. Nations which have high ethical tone are difficult to conquer. Their loyalties are hard to shake, their allegiance to their leaders is fanatical, and what they usually call their spiritual integrity cannot be violated by duress. It is not efficient to attack a nation in such a frame of mind. It is the basic purpose of Psychopolitics to reduce that state of mind to a point where it can be ordered and enslaved. Thus, the first target is Man, himself. He must be degraded from a spiritual being to an animalistic reaction pattern. He must think of himself as an animal, capable only of animalistic reactions. He must no longer think of himself, or of his fellows, as capable of "spiritual endurance," or nobility.

The best approach toward degradation in its first stages is the propaganda of "scientific approach" to Man. Man must be consistently demonstrated to be a mechanism without individuality, and it must be educated into a populace under attack that Man's individualistic reactions are the product of mental derangement. The populace must be brought into the belief that every individual within it who rebels in any way, shape, or form against efforts and activities to enslave the whole, must be considered to be a deranged person whose eccentricities are neurotic or insane, and who must have at once the treatment of a psychopolitician.

An optimum condition in such a program of degradation would address itself to the military forces of the nation, and bring them rapidly away from any other belief than that the disobedient one must be subjected to "mental treatment." An enslavement of a population can fail only if these rebellious individuals are left to exert their individual influences upon their fellow citizens, sparking them into rebellion, calling into account their nobilities and freedoms. Unless these restless individuals are stamped out and given into the hands of psychopolitical operatives early in the conquest, there will be nothing but trouble as the conquest continues.

The officials of the government, students, readers, partakers of entertainment, must all be indoctrinated, by whatever means, into the complete belief that the restless, the ambitions, the natural leaders, are suffering from environmental maladjustments, which can only be healed by recourse to psychopolitical operatives in the guise of mental healers.

By thus degrading the general belief in the status of Man it is relatively simple, with co-operation from the economic salients being driven into the country, to drive citizens apart, one from another, to bring about a question of the wisdom of their own government, and to cause them to actively beg for enslavement.

The educational programs of Psychopolitics must, at every hand, seek out the levels of youth who will become the leaders in the country's future, and educate them into the belief of the animalistic nature of Man. This must be made fashionable. They must be taught to frown upon ideas, upon individual endeavor. They must be taught, above all things, that the salvation of Man is to be found only by his adjusting thoroughly to this environment.

This educational program in the field of Psychopolitics can best be followed by bringing about a compulsory training in some subject such as psychology or other mental practice, and ascertaining that each broad program of psychopolitical training be supervised by a psychiatrist who is a trained psychopolitical operative.

As it seems in foreign nations that the church is the most ennobling influence, each and every branch and activity of each and every church, must, one way or another, be discredited. Religion must become unfashionable by demonstrating broadly, through psychopolitical indoctrination, that the soul is non-existent, and that Man is an animal. The lying mechanisms of Christianity lead men to foolishly brave deeds. By teaching them that there is a life hereafter, the liability of courageous acts, while living, is thus lessened. The liability of any act must be markedly increased if a populace is to be obedient. Thus, there must be no standing belief in the church, and the power of the church must be denied at every hand.

The psychopolitical operative, in his program of degradation, should at all times bring into question any family which is deeply religious, and, should any neurosis or insanity be occasioned in that family, to blame and hold responsible their religious connections for the neurotic or psychotic condition. Religion must be made synonymous with neurosis and psychosis. People who are deeply religious would be less and less held responsible for their own sanity, and should more and more be relegated to the ministrations of psychopolitical operatives.

By perverting the institutions of a nation and bringing about a general degradation, by interfering with the economics of a nation to the degree that privation and depression come about, only minor shocks will be necessary to produce, on the populace as a whole, an obedient reaction or an hysteria. Thus, the mere threat of war, the mere threat of aviation bombings, could cause the population to sue instantly for peace. It is a long and arduous road for the psychopolitical operative to achieve this state of mind on the part of a whole nation, but no more than twenty or thirty years should be necessary in the entire program. Having to hand, as we do, weapons with which to accomplish the goal.

CHAPTER IX

THE ORGANIZATION OF MENTAL HEALTH CAMPAIGNS

Psychopolitical operatives should at all times be alert to the opportunity to organize "for the betterment of the community" mental health clubs or groups. By thus inviting the co-operation of the population as a whole in mental health programs, the terrors of mental aberration can be disseminated throughout the populace. Furthermore, each one of these mental health groups, properly guided, can bring, at last, legislative pressure against the government to secure adequately the position of the psychopolitical operative, and to obtain for him government grants and facilities, thus bringing a government to finance its own downfall.

Mental health organizations must carefully delete from their ranks anyone actually proficient in the handling or treatment of mental health. Thus must be excluded priests, ministers, actually trained psychoanalysts, good hypnotists, or trained Dianeticists. These, with some cognizance on the subject of mental aberration and its treatment, and with some experience in observing the mentally deranged, if allowed frequency within institutions, and if permitted to receive literature, would, sooner or later, become suspicious of the activities engaged upon by the psychopolitical operative. These must be defamed and excluded as "untrained," "unskillful," "quacks," or "perpetrators of hoaxes."

No mental health movement with actual goals of mental therapy should be continued in existence in any nation. For instance, the use of Chinese acupuncture in the treatment of mental and physical derangement must, in China, be stamped out and discredited thoroughly, as it has some efficacy, and, more importantly, its practitioners understand, through long conversation with it, many of the principles of actual mental health and aberration.

In the field of mental health, the psychopolitician must occupy, and continue to occupy, through various arguments, the authoritative position on the subject. There is always the danger that problems of mental health may be resolved by some individual or group, which might then derange the program of the psychopolitical operative in his mental health clubs.

City officials, socialites, and other unknowing individuals, on the subject of mental health, should be invited to full co-operation in the activity of mental health groups. But the entirety of this activity should be to finance better facilities for the psychopolitical practitioner. To these groups it must be continually stressed that the entire subject of mental illness is so complex that none of them, certainly, could understand any part of it. Thus, the club should be kept on a social and financial level.

Where groups interested in the health of the community have already been formed, they should be infiltrated and taken over, and if this is not possible, they should be discredited and debarred, and the officialdom of the area should be invited to stamp them out as dangerous.

When an hostile group dedicated to mental health is discovered, the psychopolitician should have recourse to the mechanisms of peyote, mescaline, and later drugs which cause temporary insanity. He should send persons, preferably those well under his control, into the mental health group, whether Christian Science or Dianetics or faith preachers to demonstrate their abilities upon this new person. These, in demonstrating their abilities, will usually act with enthusiasm. Midway in the course of their treatment, a quiet injection of peyote, mescaline, or other drug, or an electric shock, will produce the symptoms of insanity in the patient which has been sent to the target group. The patient thus demonstrating momentary insanity should immediately be reported to the police and taken away to some area of incarceration managed by psychopolitical operatives, and so placed out of sight. Officialdom will thus come into a belief that this group drives individuals insane by their practices, and the practices of the group will then be despised and prohibited by law.

The values of a widespread mental health organization are manifest when one realizes that any government can be forced to provide facilities for psychopolitical operatives in the form of psychiatric wards in all hospitals, in national institutions totally in the hands of psychopolitical operatives, and in the establishment of clinics where youth can be contacted and arranged more seemingly to the purposes of Psychopolitics.

Such groups form a political force, which can then legalize any law or authority desired for the psychopolitical operative.

The securing of authority over such mental health organizations is done mainly by appeal to education. A psychopolitical operative should make sure that those psychiatrists he controls, those psychologists whom he has under his orders, have been trained for an excessively long period of time. The longer the training period which can be required, the safer the psychopolitical program, since no new group of practitioners can arise to disclose and dismay psychopolitical programs. Furthermore, the groups themselves cannot hope to obtain any full knowledge of the subject, not having behind them many, many years of intensive training.

Vienna has been carefully maintained as the home of Psychopolitics, since it was the home of Psychoanalysis. Although our activities have long since dispersed any of the gains made by Freudian groups, and have taken over these groups, the proximity of Vienna to Russia, where Psychopolitics is operating abroad, and the necessity "for further study" by psychopolitical operatives in the birthplace of Psychoanalysis, makes periodic contacts with headquarters possible. Thus, the word "psychoanalysis" must be stressed at all times, and must be pretended to be a thorough part of the psychiatrist's training.

Psychoanalysis has the very valuable possession of a vocabulary, and a workability which is sufficiently poor to avoid recovery of psychopolitical implantations. It can be made fashionable throughout mental health organizations, and by learning its patter, and by believing they see some of its phenomena, the members of mental health groups can believe themselves conversant with mental health. Because its stress is sex, it is, itself, an adequate defamation of character, and serves the purposes of degradation well. Thus, in organizing mental health groups, the literature furnished such groups should be psychoanalytical in nature.

If a group of persons interested in suppressing juvenile delinquency, in caring for the insane, and the promotion of psychopolitical operatives and their actions can be formed in every major city of a country under conquest, the success of a psychopolitical program is assured, since these groups seem to represent a large segment of the population. By releasing continued propaganda on the subject of dope addiction, homosexuality, and depraved conduct on the part of the young, even the judges of a country can become suborned into reacting violently against the youth of the country, thus mis-aligning and aligning the support of youth.

The communication lines of psychopolitics, if such mental health organizations can be well established, can thus run from its most prominent citizens to its government. It is not too much to hope that the influence of such groups could bring about a psychiatric ward in every hospital in the land, and psychiatrists in every company and regiment of the nation's army, and whole government institutes manned entirely by psychopolitical operatives, into which ailing government officials could be placed, to the advantage of the psychopolitician.

If a psychiatric ward could be established in every hospital in every city in a nation, it is certain that, at one time or another, every prominent citizen of that nation could come under the ministrations of psychopolitical operatives or their dupes.

The validation of psychiatric position in the armed forces and security-minded institutions of the nation under conquest could bring about a flow and fund of information unlike any other program which could be conceived. If every pilot who flies a new plane could come under the questioning of a psychopolitical operative, if the compiler of every plan of military action could thus come under the review of psychopolitical operatives, the simplicity with which information can be extracted by the use of certain drugs, without the after-knowledge of the soldier, would entirely cripple any overt action toward Communism. If the nation could be educated into turning over to psychopolitical operatives every recalcitrant or rebellious soldier, it would lose its best fighters. Thus, the advantage of mental health organizations can be seen, for these, by exerting an apparent public pressure against the government, can achieve these ends and goals.

The financing of a psychopolitical operation is difficult unless it is done by the citizens and government. Although vast sums of money can be obtained from private patients, and from relatives who wish persons put away, it is, nevertheless, difficult to obtain millions, unless the government itself is co-operating. The co-operation of the government to obtain these vast sums of money is best obtained by the organization of mental health groups composed of leading citizens, and who bring their lobbying abilities to bear against the nation's government. Thus can be financed many programs, which might otherwise have to be laid aside by the psychopolitician.

The psychopolitical operative should bend consistent and continual effort toward forming and continuing in action innumerable mental health groups.

The psychopolitical operative should also spare no expense in smashing out of existence, by whatever means, any actual healing group, such as that of acupuncture, in China; such as Christian Science, Dianetics and faith healing, in the United States; such as Catholicism in Italy and Spain; and the practical psychological groups of England.

CHAPTER X

CONDUCT UNDER FIRE

The psychopolitician may well find himself under attack as an individual or a member of a group. He may be attacked as a Communist, through some leak in the organization, he may be attacked for malpractice. He may be attacked by the families of people whom he has injured. In all cases his conduct of the situation should be calm and aloof. He should have behind him the authority of many years of training, and he should have participated fully in the building of defenses in the field of insanity which give him the only statement as to the conditions of the mind.

If he has not done his work well, hostile feeling groups may expose an individual psychopolitician. These may call into question the efficacy of psychiatric treatment such as shock, drugs, and brain surgery. Therefore, the psychopolitical operative must have to hand innumerable documents which assert enormously encouraging figures on the subject of recovery by reason of shock, brain surgery, drugs, and general treatment. Not one of these cases cited need be real, but they should be documented and printed in such a fashion as to form excellent court evidence.

When his allegiance is attacked, the psychopolitical operative should explain his connection with Vienna on the grounds that Vienna is the place of study for all important matters of the mind.

More importantly, he should rule into scorn, by reason of his authority, the sanity of the person attacking him, and if the psychopolitical archives of the country are adequate many defamatory data can be unearthed and presented as a rebuttal.

Should anyone attempt to expose psychotherapy as a psychopolitical activity, the best defense is calling into question the sanity of the attacker. The next best defense is authority. The next best defense is a validation of psychiatric practices in terms of long and impressive figures. The next best defense is the actual removal of the attacker by giving him, or them, treatment sufficient to bring about a period of insanity for the duration of the trial. This, more than anything else, would discredit them, but it is dangerous to practice this, in the extreme.

Psychopolitics should avoid murder and violence, unless it is done in the safety of the institution, on persons who have been proven to be insane. Where institution deaths appear to be unnecessary, or to rise in "unreasonable number," political capital might be made of this by city officials or legislature. If the psychopolitical operative has, himself, or if his group has done a thorough job, defamatory data concerning the person, or connections, of the would-be attacker should be on file, should be documented, and should be used in such a way as to discourage the inquiry.

After a period of indoctrination, a country will expect insanity to be met by psychopolitical violence. Psychopolitical activities should become the only recognized treatment for insanity. Indeed, this can be extended to such a length that it could be made illegal for electric shock and brain surgery to be omitted in the treatment of a patient.

In order to defend psychopolitical activities, a great complexity should be made of psychiatric, psychoanalytical, and psychological technology. Any hearing should be burdened by terminology too difficult to be transcribed easily. A great deal should be made out of such terms as schizophrenia, paranoia, and other relatively undefinable states.

Psychopolitical tests need not necessarily be in agreement, one to another, where they are available to the public. Various types of insanity should be characterized by difficult terms. The actual state should be made obscure, but by this verbiage it can be built into the court or investigating mind that a scientific approach exists and that it is too complex for him to understand. It is not to be imagined that a judge or a committee of investigation should inquire too deeply into the subject of insanity, since they, themselves, part of the indoctrinated masses, are already intimidated if the psychopolitical activity has caused itself to be well-documented in terms of horror in magazines.

In case of a hearing or trial, the terribleness of insanity itself, its threat to the society, should be exaggerated until the court or committee believes that the psychopolitical operative is vitally necessary in his post and should not be harrassed for the activities of persons who are irrational.

An immediate attack upon the sanity of the attacker before any possible hearing can take place is the very best defense. It should become well-known that "only the insane attack psychiatrists." The by-word should be built into the society that paranoia is a condition "in which the individual believes he is being attacked by Communists." It will be found that this defense is effective.

Part of the effective defenses should include the entire lack in the society of any real psychotherapy. This must be systematically stamped out, since a real psychotherapy might possibly uncover the results of psychopolitical activities.

Jurisprudence, in a Capitalistic nation, is of such clumsiness that cases are invariably tried in their newspapers. We have handled these things much better in Russia, and have uniformly brought people to trial with full confessions already arrived at (being implanted) before the trial took place.

Should any whisper, or pamphlet, against psychopolitical activities be published, it should be laughed into scorn, branded an immediate hoax, and its perpetrator or publisher should be, at the first opportunity, branded as insane, and by the use of drugs the insanity should be confirmed.

CHAPTER XI

THE USE OF PSYCHOPOLITICS IN SPREADING COMMUNISM

Reactionary nations are of such a composition that they attack a word without understanding of it. As the conquest of a nation by Communism depends upon imbuing its population with communistic tenets, it is not necessary that the term "Communism" be applied at first to the educative measures employed.

As an example, in the United States we have been able to alter the works of William James, and others, into a more acceptable pattern, and to place the tenets of Karl Marx, Pavlov, Lamarck, and the data of Dialectic Materialism into the textbooks of psychology, to such a degree that anyone thoroughly studying psychology becomes at once a candidate to accept the reasonableness of Communism.

As every chair of psychology in the United States is occupied by persons in our connection, or who can be influenced by persons in our connection, the consistent employment of such texts is guaranteed. They are given the authoritative ring, and they are carefully taught.

Constant pressure in the legislatures of the United States can bring about legislation to the effect that every student attending a high school or university must have classes in psychology.

Educating broadly the educated strata of the populace into the tenets of Communism is thus rendered relatively easy, and when the choice is given them whether to continue in a Capitalistic or a Communistic condition, they will see, suddenly, in Communism, much more reasonability than in Capitalism, which will now be of our own definition.

CHAPTER XII

VIOLENT REMEDIES

As populates, in general, understand that a violence is necessary in the handling of the insane, violent remedies seem to be reasonable. Starting from a relatively low level of violence, such as strait-jackets and other restraints, it is relatively easy to encroach upon the public diffidence for violence by adding more and more cruelty into the treatment of the insane.

By increasing the brutality of "treatment," the public expectance of such treatment will be assisted, and the protest of the individual to whom the treatment is given is impossible, since immediately after the treatment he is incapable. The family of the individual under treatment is suspect for having had in its midst, already, an insane person. The family's protest should be discredited.

The more violent the treatment, the more command value the psychopolitical operative will accumulate. Brain operations should become standard and commonplace. While the figures of actual deaths should be repressed wherever possible, nevertheless, it is of no great concern to the psychopolitical operative that many deaths do occur.

Gradually, the public should be educated into electric shock, first by believing that it is very therapeutic, then by believing that it is quieting, then by being informed that electric shock usually injures the spine and teeth, and finally, that it very often kills or at least breaks the spine and removes, violently, the teeth of the patient. It is very doubtful if anyone from the lay levels of the public could tolerate the observation of a single electric shock treatment. Certainly they could not tolerate witnessing a prefrontal lobotomy or trans-orbital leucotomy. However, they should be brought up to a level where this is possible, where it is the expected treatment, and where the details, of the treatment itself can be made known, thus to the increase of psychopolitical prestige.

The more violent the treatment, the more hopeless insanity will seem to be.

The society should be worked up to the level where every recalcitrant young man can be brought into court and assigned to a psychopolitical operative, be given electric shocks, and reduced into unimaginative docility for the remainder of his days.

By continuous and increasing advertising of the violence of treatment, the public will at last come to tolerate the creation of zombie conditions to such a degree that they will probably employ zombies, if given to them. Thus a large strata of the society, particularly that which was rebellious, can be reduced to the service of the psychopolitician.

By various means, a public must be convinced, at least, that insanity can only be met by shock, torture, deprivation, defamation, discreditation, violence, maiming, death, punishment in all its forms. The society, at the same time, must be educated into the belief of increasing insanity within its ranks. This creates an emergency, and places the psychopolitician in a saviour role, and places him, at length, in charge of the society.

CHAPTER XIII

THE RECRUITING OF PSYCHOPOLITICAL DUPES

The psychopolitical dupe is a well-trained individual who serves in complete obedience the psychopolitical operative.

In that nearly all persons in training are expected to undergo a certain amount of treatment in any field of the mind, it is not too difficult to persuade persons in the field of mental healing to subject themselves to mild or minor drugs or shock. If this can be done, a psychological dupe on the basis of pain-drug hypnosis can immediately result.

Recruitment into the ranks of "mental healing" can best be done by carefully bringing to it only those healing students who are, to some slight degree, already depraved, or who have been "treated" by psychopolitical operatives.

Recruitment is effected by making the field of mental healing very attractive, financially, and sexually.

The amount of promiscuity which can be induced in mental patients can work definitely to the advantage of the psychopolitical recruiting agent. The dupe can thus be induced into many lurid sexual contacts, and these, properly witnessed, can thereafter be used as blackmail material to assist any failure of pain-drug hypnosis in causing him to execute orders.

The promise of unlimited sexual opportunities, the promise of complete dominion over the bodies and minds of helpless patients, the promise of complete lawlessness without detection, can thus attract to "mental healing" many desirable recruits who will willingly fall in line with psychopolitical activities.

In that the psychopolitician has under his control the insane of the nation, most of them have criminal tendencies, and as he can, as his movement goes forward, recruit for his ranks the criminals themselves, he has unlimited numbers of human beings to employ on whatever project he may see fit. In that the insane will execute destructive projects without question, if given the proper amount of punishment and implantation, the degradation of the country's youth, the defamation of its leaders, the suborning of its courts becomes childishly easy.

The psychopolitician has the advantage of naming as a delusory symptom any attempt on the part of a patient to expose commands.

The psychopolitician should carefully adhere to institutions and should eschew private practice whenever possible, since this gives him the greatest number of human beings to control to the use of Communism. When he does act in private practice, it should be only in contact with the families of the wealthy and the officials of the country.

CHAPTER XIV

THE SMASHING OF RELIGIOUS GROUPS

You must know that until recent times the complete subject of mental derangement, whether so light as simple worry or so heavy as insanity, was the sphere of activity of the church and only the church.

Traditionally in civilized nations and barbaric ones the priesthood alone had in complete charge the mental condition of the citizen. As a matter of great concern to the psychopolitician this tendency still exists in every public in the Western World and scientific inroads into this sphere has occurred only in official and never in public quarters.

The magnificent tool welded for us by Wundt would be as nothing if it were not for official insistence in civilized countries that "scientific practices" be applied to the problem of the mind. Without this official insistence or even if it relapsed for a moment, the masses would grasp stupidity for the priest, the minister, the clergy when mental condition came in question. Today in Europe and America "scientific practices" in the field of the mind would not last moments if not enforced entirely by officialdom.

It must be carefully hidden that the incidence of insanity has increased only since these "scientific practices" were applied. Great remarks must be made of "the pace of modern living" and other myths as the cause of the increased neurosis in the world. It is nothing to us what causes it if anything does. It is everything to us that no evidence of any kind shall be tolerated afoot to permit the public tendency toward the church its way. If given their heads, if left to themselves to decide, independent of officialdom, where they would place their deranged loved ones the public would choose religious sanitariums and would avoid as if plagued places where "scientific practices" prevail.

Given any slightest encouragement, public support would swing on an instant all mental healing into the hands of the churches. And there are Churches waiting to receive it, clever churches. That terrible monster the Roman Catholic Church still dominates mental healing heavily throughout the Christian world and their well schooled priests are always at work to turn the public their way. Among Fundamentalists and Pentecostal groups healing campaigns are conducted, which, because of their results, win many to the cult of Christianity. In the field of pure healing the Church of Christ Science of Boston, Massachusetts excels in commanding the public favor and operates many sanitariums. All these must be swept aside. They must be ridiculed and defamed and every cure they advertise must be asserted as a hoax. A full fifth of a psychopolitician's time should be devoted to smashing these threats. Just as in Russia we had to destroy, after many, many years of the most arduous work, the Church, so we must destroy all faiths in nations marked for conquest.

Insanity must be made to hound the footsteps of every priest and practitioner. His best results must be turned to jibbering insanities no matter what means we have to use.

You need not care what effect you have upon the public. The effect you care about is the one upon officials. You must recruit every agency of the nation marked for slaughter into a foaming hatred of religious healing. You must suborn district attorneys and judges into an intense belief as fervent as an ancient faith in God that Christian Science or any other religious practice which might devote itself to mental healing is vicious, bad, insanity-causing, publicly hated and intolerable.

You must suborn and recruit any medical healing organization into collusion in this campaign. You must appeal to their avarice and even their humanity to invite their cooperation in smashing all religious healing and thus, to our end, care of the insane. You must see that such societies have only qualified Communist-indoctrinees as their advisors in this matter. For you can use such societies. They are stupid and stampede easily. Their cloak and degrees can be used quite well to mask any operation we care to have masked. We must make them partners in our endeavor so that they will never be able to crawl from beneath our thumb and discredit us.

We have battled in America since the century's turn to bring to nothing any and all Christian influences and we are succeeding. While we today seem to be kind to the Christian remember we have yet to influence the "Christian world" to our ends. When that is done we shall have an end of them everywhere. You may see them here in Russia as trained apes. They do not know their tether is long only until the apes in other lands have become unwary.

You must work until "religion" is synonymous with "insanity." You must work until the officials of city, county and state governments will not think twice before they pounce upon religious groups as public enemies.

Remember, all lands are governed by the few and only pretend to consult with the many. It is no different in America. The petty official, the maker of laws alike can be made to believe the worst. It is not necessary to convince the masses. It is only necessary to work incessantly upon the official, using personal defamations, wild lies, false evidences and constant propaganda to make him fight for you against the church or against any practitioner.

Like the official the bona-fide medical healer also believes the worst if it can be shown to him as dangerous competition. And like the Christian, should he seek to take from us any right we have gained, we shall finish him as well.

We must be like the vine upon the tree. We use the tree to climb and then, strangling it, grow into power on the nourishment of its flesh.

We must strike from our path any opposition. We must use for our tools and authority that comes to hand. And then at last, the decades sped, we can dispense with all authority save our own and triumph in the greater glory of the Party.

CHAPTER XV

PROPOSALS WHICH MUST BE AVOIDED

There are certain damaging movements which could interrupt a psychopolitical conquest. These, coming from some quarters of the country, might gain headway and should be spotted before they do, and stamped out.

Proposals may be made by large and powerful groups in the country to return the insane to the care of those who have handled mental healing for tribes and populaces for centuries—the priest. Any movement to place clergymen in charge of institutions should be fought on the grounds of incompetence and the insanity brought about by religion. The most destructive thing which could happen to a psychopolitical program would be the investment of the ministry with the care of the nation's insane.

If mental hospitals operated by religious groups are in existence, they must be discredited and closed, no matter what the cost, for it might occur that the actual figures of recovery in such institutions would become known, and that the lack of recovery in general institutions might be compared to them, and this might lead to a movement to place the clergy in charge of the insane. Every argument must be advanced early, to overcome any possibility of this ever occurring.

A country's law must carefully be made to avoid any rights of person to the insane. Any suggested laws or Constitutional Amendments which make the harming of the insane unlawful, should be fought to the extreme, on the grounds that only violent measures can succeed. If the law were to protect the insane, as it normally does not, the entire psychopolitical program would very possibly collapse.

Any movement to increase or place under surveillance the orders required to hospitalize the mentally ill should be discouraged. This should be left entirely in the hands of persons well under the control of psychopolitical operatives. It should be done with minimum formality, and no recovery of the insane from an institution should be possible by any process of law. Thus, any movement to add to the legal steps of the processes of commitment and release should be discouraged on the grounds of emergency. To obviate this, the best action is to place a psychiatric and detention ward for the mentally ill in every hospital in a land.

Any writings of a psychopolitical nature, accidentally disclosing themselves, should be prevented. All actual literature on the subject of insanity and its treatment should be suppressed, first by actual security, and second by complex verbiage which renders it incomprehensible. The actual figures of recovery or death should never be announced in any papers. Any investigation attempting to discover whether or not psychiatry or psychology has ever cured anyone should immediately be discouraged and laughed to scorn, and should mobilize at that point all psychopolitical operatives. At first, it should be ignored, but if this is not possible, the entire weight of all psychopoliticians in the nation should be pressed into service. Any tactic possible should be employed to prevent this from occurring. To rebut it, technical appearing papers should exist as to the tremendous number of cures effected by psychiatry and psychology, and whenever possible, percentages of cures, no matter how fictitious, should be worked into legislative papers, thus forming a background of "evidence" which would immediately rebut any effort to actually discover anyone who had ever been helped by psychiatry or psychology.

If the Communistic connections of an psychopolitician should become disclosed, it should be attributed to his own carelessness, and he should, himself, be immediately branded as eccentric within his own profession.

Authors of literature which seek to demonstrate the picture of a society under complete mental control and duress should be helped toward infamy or suicide to discredit their works.

Any legislation liberalizing any healing practice should be immediately fought and defeated. All healing practices should gravitate entirely to authoritative levels, and no other opinions should be admitted, as these might lead to exposure.

Movements to improve youth should be invaded and corrupted, as this might interrupt campaigns to produce in youth delinquency, addiction, drunkenness, and sexual promiscuity.

Communist workers in the field of newspapers and radio should be protected wherever possible by striking out of action, through Psychopolitics, any persons consistently attacking them. These, in their turn, should be persuaded to give every possible publicity to the benefits of psychopolitical activities under the heading of "science."

No healing group devoted to the mind must be allowed to exist within the borders of Russia or its satellites. Only well-vouched-for psychopolitical operatives can be continued in their practice, and this only for the benefit of the government or against enemy prisoners.

Any effort to exclude psychiatrists or psychologists from the armed services must be fought.

Any inquest into the "suicide" or sudden mental derangement of any political leader in a nation must be conducted only by psychopolitical operatives or their dupes, whether Psychopolitics is responsible or not.

Death and violence against persons attacking Communism in a nation should be eschewed as forbidden. Violent activity against such persons might bring about their martyrdom. Defamation, and the accusation of insanity, alone should be employed, and they should be brought at last under the ministrations of psychopolitical operatives, such as psychiatrists and controlled psychologists.

CHAPTER XVI

IN SUMMARY

In this time of unlimited weapons, and in national antagonisms where atomic war with Capitalistic powers is possible, Psychopolitics must act efficiently as never before.

Any and all programs of Psychopolitics must be increased to aid and abet the activities of other Communist agents throughout the nation in question.

The failure of Psychopolitics might well bring about the atomic bombing of the Motherland.

If Psychopolitics succeeds in its mission throughout the Capitalistic nations of the world, there will never be an atomic war, for Russia will have subjugated all of her enemies.

Communism has already spread across one-sixth of the inhabited world. Marxist Doctrines have already penetrated the remainder. An extension of the Communist social order is everywhere victorious. The spread of Communism has never been by force of battle, but by conquest of the mind. In Psychopolitics we have refined this conquest to its last degree.

The psychopolitical operative must succeed, for his success means a world of Peace. His failure might well mean the destruction of the civilized portions of Earth by atomic power in the hands of Capitalistic madmen.

The end thoroughly justifies the means. The degradation of populaces is less inhuman than their destruction by atomic fission, for to an animal who lives only once, any life is sweeter than death.

The end of war is the control of a conquered people. If a people can be conquered in the absence of war, the end of war will have been achieved without the destruction of war. A worthy goal.

The psychopolitician has his reward in the nearly unlimited control of populaces, in the uninhibited exercise of passion, and the glory of Communist conquest over the stupidity of the enemies of the People.

By letter dated January 27, 1966, asked the Director whether or not reprints were available of his article printed in the Congressional Record of an unknown date entitled "Reds Try to Convert Pulpit to Own Use." It was pointed out that this article appeared on page three of the August - September, 1965, issue of "The Pilgrim Torch" edited by Dr. Kenneth Goff. Extensive efforts to identify the article she mentioned and to locate a copy of the pertinent issue of "The Pilgrim Torch" were to no avail. Accordingly, an airtel was sent to the Denver Office 1-17-66 instructing that a copy of "The Pilgrim Torch" mentioned by correspondent be obtained. communication was acknowledged by an in-absence letter of the same date. It was pointed out on the yellow of the airtel that the Bureau was well aware of the unsavory background of Kenneth Goff who professes to be an expert on communism.

By airtel dated 1-20-66 SAC, Denver forwarded a copy of the August - September, 1965, issue of "The Pilgrim Torch." The copy was furnished by Mrs. Kenneth Goff. From a review of the article, it appeared that Goff lifted excerpts from the Director's article entitled "Communist Propaganda and the Christian Pulpit" which appeared in the October 24, 1960, issue of "Christianity Today" and printed it under the title "Reds Try to Convert Pulpit to Own Use." Approximately half of the original article was deleted but the portion reprinted reflects accurate quotes. The Director's article did appear in the Congressional Record of February 24, 1961, in entirety; however, Congressional Record of 1-10-61 contained abbreviated version under title used in "The Pilgrim Torch!"

Mr. Tolson's Office has inquired as to why Mrs. Goff was contacted in connection with this matter. By way of background it should be noted that in June of 1963 the Denver Office advised that for the past 15 years Agents of that office had interviewed Kenneth Goff in connection with information he had previously furnished the Milwaukee Office, primarily in connection with Security of Government Employees and applicant-type investigations. In each instance Goff cooperated whole-heartedly and furnished signed statements regarding knowledge he had previously furnished.

OBSERVATIONS:

[REDACTED] This contact did not pertain to any interview regarding security matters but was done so that the article in question could be obtained and identified. A further check of Bufiles indicates that Senator Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin extended his remarks to include an article by the Director which was printed in the Congressional Record of January 10, 1961, under the title "Reds Try to Convert Pulpit to Own Use." This is an abbreviated version which the Senator obtained from "The Milwaukee Sentinel," Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and it appears that this paper is responsible for the abbreviation. The reprint of it in "The Pilgrim Torch" is exactly as it appeared in the Congressional Record of January 10, 1961. (94-51060-70)

A husky ex-Marine, hired as a karate instructor at Dr. Kenneth Goff's Soldiers of the Cross camp near Evergreen, said Saturday he quit in disgust after being subjected to an indoctrination in hate — and to open solicitation to join the Minutemen.

Richard Preston, 26, said the main reason he went to the camp was to learn more about Christian love and the Scriptures.

Preston, now employed as a steelworker, is studying part-time for the ministry.

Instead of Christian love, he told The Denver Post, he and the others at the camp were schooled in the techniques of "resistance in a police state."

(Goff is a Denver-area evangelist who lists himself as a former Communist party member who left the party and has since become a militant anti-Communist. He has been associated with right-wing causes and his current "Soldiers of the Cross" activity is described as being a missionary training effort to prepare leaders who can spread his beliefs.)

Instead of the Scriptures, he said, the emphasis was on racism, espionage and the arts of war.

One lecturer talked about weapons, about how "you could hold 20 people at bay with a sawed-off shotgun," Preston said. Another talked about secret codes and wiretapping. Still another came from Denver to dish up diatribes of bigotry, impassioned warnings of the perils of "a mongrel race."

Recruitment Attempted

At one point, Preston said, a high-ranking officer of the Minutemen came to the camp, taught a class in "coordination of intelligence in the resistance movement," and then tried to recruit him and the others.

Even in his own case, he said, he was called on to teach the "real hard stuff, kind of karate" — not the more traditional style which emphasizes form and ceremony.

"Ninety per cent of the classes pertained to survival, electronic equipment, wiretapping, military warfare, squad tactics and the whole bit," Preston said.

Karate 10 Pct. of Work

The other 10 per cent?

"My karate instruction," Preston said.

Classes that were announced as theology classes turned out to be lectures on communism, anti-communism and the tactics that, according to Preston, Goff felt would be necessary for the counter-revolution — such as assassination, terrorism, espionage, spying, sabotage, psychological warfare and subversion.

Preston told The Post that Goff's curriculum at the Soldiers of the Cross camp closely parallels the Minutemen line, and in some ways goes beyond it. The notable difference, he said, was Goff's view of Negroes — whom, Preston said, Goff considers the Biblical "beasts of the field" — people in a position of servitude.

Preston, who is married and has four children, was associated with Goff for 4½ months in the fall and winter of 1966. He said he applied for, and was accepted to, employment as a $120-a-month karate teacher, hoping to use his free time at the camp to study the Bible.

Preston, who served four years in the Marine Corps, holds a first-degree brown belt rating in karate, a Japanese system of self-defense without a weapon.

He said he soon learned that the emphasis was on survival and counter-insurgency tactics at the Goff camp.

He identified the lecturer-recruiter as Walter Patrick Peyson, now 24, who with Minuteman boss Robert Bolivar DePugh, is appealing a Kansas City, Mo., conviction of violation of the National Firearms Act.

The Minutemen organization is a self-delegated guerrilla force which, its leaders say, will wage a counter-revolution if and when a Communist takeover of this country occurs. The Minutemen will decide just when that is, and there have been indications that DePugh's imprisonment may be the call to arms.

The Post disclosed last week that the Minutemen have become increasingly active in Colorado in recent months, have cached arms and supplies in the mountains in preparation for guerrilla warfare, and themselves state this activity is widespread in the Rockies.

One of the lecturers was Earl Southard of Denver, an organizer of the pre-World War II America First Party. And one of Southard's favorite subjects, according to Preston, was built around the premise that Negroes and Spanish-Americans are doubling their birth rates while Anglo-Americans try to restrict theirs — this, because the minorities "plan to outgrow us."

Preston and his family went to the camp in September. Several weeks later, he said, Peyson showed up to conduct a one-week course in intelligence operations.

He said Peyson tried to interest him in the Minutemen, and put him on the mailing list for Minuteman literature.

That literature included looseleaf instructions for "organization and leadership of the Minuteman band."

Some sample quotes from these instructions:

"... The team is the basic unit of the Minuteman organization. The team may start with only one member and can grow to include six or seven altogether. For security reasons, the team should be divided into two cells. Members of Cell A, should know the members of Cell B by code name only."

1443

"Combat equipment must be selected with anticipated use in resistance warfare rather than regular military combat."

"Withdrawing from the band is not easy. Should he (the member) withdraw, he will forever afterwards be considered as suspect by the other band members and watched by the security section of the organization."

"Finding and identifying the local Communists and fellow travelers by name, address, phone number and organization is an important function of the intelligence efforts. But along with this the team must find, evaluate and use the local anti-Communists and natural allies. It is important for the team to establish friendly relations with members of the local police, press, conservative gun dealers, etc."

"The team must obtain street, road and topographical maps of their area. No time should be lost in securing hide-outs, safe houses and secret training areas."

'Watch Papers for Enemies'

"Assign one member the duty of studying the local papers carefully including the letters to the editor for the names of prospective enemies."

"... Locate (on maps) the important communications centers, underground telephone cables, terminal boxes, power plants and power transmission lines, supplies of arms, ammunition, and explosives, regardless of present ownership."

"Infiltrate liberal organizations and especially the campaign headquarters of liberal politicians so that their efforts may be sabotaged at such time as may be expedient."

By January, Preston said, he had had enough. He said he saw less and less connection between infantry squad tactics and winning souls, and he quit Goff.

Goff was reported out of town on a speaking tour Saturday, and not available for comment.

Goff Raps Minutemen Series as Blind to Threats

By BILL MYERS

Denver Post Staff Writer

The Rev. Kenneth Goff, leader of the right-wing Soldiers of the Cross, Sunday blasted The Denver Post, staff writer Bob Whearley and Whearley's sources of information for a series of articles on the Minutemen and Goff's organization.

Goff said The Post and Whearley are blind to the threats of Communists and extremist black power advocates in the nation.

Instead of pointing out these dangers, he said, The Post and Whearley have been attacking conservative groups which are trying to protect the country.

He gave his appraisal of both of his targets when he called Whearley "a prostitute in a journalistic brothel."

Goff, Englewood, is an evangelist who describes himself as a former Communist who awoke to the fallacies of the ideology and became a militant anti-Communist.

Among his many right-wing activities is his Soldiers of the Cross organization, described as a missionary training effort to prepare leaders to spread Goff's beliefs and fight national threats.

Goff spoke Sunday to about 35 persons attending a service at his Soldiers of the Cross Church, 125 S. Sherman St.

He said he has been out of the Denver area recently on a tour of riot areas in California, Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin.

Goff said that Sunday was his first public chance to reply to disclosures made in a recent series of Post articles written by Whearley about the Minutemen and the Soldiers of the Cross.

In a copyrighted article Oct. 1, Whearley reported on an interview with Richard Preston, 26, a former karate instructor at the Soldiers of the Cross camp near Evergreen.

Preston, an ex-Marine who is studying part time for the ministry, said he went to the camp to further his religious studies.

Instead of that type of instruction, he said, he found schooling in hate, racism, espionage and the arts of war. He said he quit in disgust after four months.

Preston said he also was urged to join the Minutemen, a private right-wing organization which trains guerrillas to wage a counter-revolution in case of a Communist takeover of the United States.

In other copyrighted Post articles, Whearley tapped various sources—including a Minuteman defector—to disclose that Minutemen have stepped up their activities in Colorado and the rest of the nation in recent months.

The stepup includes the caching of weapons, ammunition and supplies in the mountains, and the fact has been confirmed by The Post in interviews with Robert Bolivar DePugh, Minuteman chief, and top aides at headquarters of the Patriotic party, the Minutemen's political arm, in Independence, Mo.

LITERATURE GIVEN

Goff on Sunday passed out to his congregation copies of extremist black power literature which he said he picked up on his trip. The literature preaches hate of the white man and calls for murder, arson and other violence.

"Bob Whearley never sees this," Goff said.

Instead, Goff said, Whearley and The Post are concentrating their exposes on the Minutemen and such conservative Christian groups as Soldiers of the Cross, which would protect citizens in case of a takeover by Reds or black power extremists.

He said he learned on his trip that Negro men have stepped up muggings and sexual assaults on white women in hotbeds of black power activity.

The police, armed only "with marshmallows," can't protect citizens against such attacks, he said. The job of protection must be done by somebody else he said, presumably such groups as Minutemen and Soldiers of the Cross.

Goff challenged Preston's statement that Preston quit his job at the camp in disgust at its curriculum. Goff said Preston was fired because of character deficiencies.

In commenting on Goff's charges, Preston Sunday night told The Post he can produce numerous witnesses to testify as to his character and back up his charges about the camp. Most of these witnesses attended classes in the camp, he said.

Preston said he had friends at the Sunday church meeting, who reported to him in detail on Goff's charges against his character. Preston said he is prepared to defend himself on every charge.

Goff denied that racism is preached at the camp, but he warned later in his sermon against mixing the races, saying that God created different races and meant them to stay that way.

RACIAL MATTERS (ORGANIZATION)

The Bureau is in possession of two newspaper articles which appeared in the "Denver Post." The first article dated 10/1/67 was entitled "Camp Used as Cover to Preach Hate." This article disclosed that one, Richard Preston, who had been hired as a karate instructor by Kenneth Goff to teach in Goff's "Soldiers of the Cross" camp, recently quit after he was "subjected to an indoctrination in hate." Preston stated in the article that he was taught "racism, espionage, and the arts of war." He was lectured about weapons, secret codes, and wiretapping. He then went on to point out that a high ranking officer of the Minutemen had lectured a class in "coordination of intelligence in the resistance movement." This man then tried to recruit him and others attending Goff's camp into the Minutemen.

The second article dated 10/9/67 was entitled "Goff Raps Minutemen Series as Blind to Threats." This article disclosed that the head of the "Soldiers of the Cross," Kenneth Goff, denied that racism was preached at his camp but later in his sermon had spoken against race mixing.

A review of Bureau files failed to disclose that a report has ever been furnished concerning the "Soldiers of the Cross." In view of the articles mentioned above, Denver is instructed to conduct a discreet investigation to determine whether the captioned organization fits under the criteria set forth in Section 122a of the Manual of Instructions pertaining to hate groups.

The above review of Bureau files failed to disclose any pertinent information not already in possession of the Denver Office.

NOTE:

The Minutemen group is a highly secret anti-communist, paramilitary organization based in Norborne, Missouri. "Soldiers of the Cross" is an organization based near Evergreen, Colorado, and headed by Kenneth Goff, a minister and director of a church in Denver, Colorado. Goff for many years has traveled throughout the country making numerous anticommunist speeches. In 1948 he was fined $100 for placing signs of a derogatory nature in front of the Russian Embassy. He operates the "Soldiers of the Cross" training camp for interested persons. In the past, students have been taught "Christian History," "Constitutional Conception," the "Bible versus communism," the "History of Communism," "ham radio operations" and "judo." Goff has been described as a "borderline psychopath." We have recently been advised that the Goff group and the Minutemen have formed, at the least, a loose alliance. They have addressed each others functions and the Minutemen recently utilized Goff's camp for a Minutemen training session. In view of this alliance and the public source information mentioned in above letter concerning racism, we are calling for a report on the organization to further evaluate its aims and purposes.

On December 4, 1967, [redacted] advised he does not know GOFF, but knows several people who are acquainted with GOFF and who have attended his camp at Evergreen. He has never heard that GOFF was a racist or advocates violence; however, he could be classified as a segregationist and a staunch anti-Communist. b2 b7D

A review of the Denver files shows that GOFF, since 1945, has given numerous speeches before various church bodies throughout the country on communism. He is an avowed anti-Communist and actively supports any group who desires to outlaw the Communist Party. Pamphlets published by GOFF and obtained by the Denver Office fail to show that GOFF preaches hate; however, he is opposed to integration. No mention is made regarding the use of force or violence in connection with carrying out his beliefs.

Since "Soldiers of the Cross" and GOFF have not actively or allegedly committed or conspired to commit acts of violence to deny others their rights under the Constitution, or adopted the policy advocating, condoning, or inciting the use of force in denying these rights, neither the "Soldiers of the Cross" nor GOFF would come within the criteria of Section 122(a) of the Manual of Instructions; therefore, no report is being submitted.

Denver continues to receive information on a sporadic basis regarding GOFF and the "Soldiers of the Cross." If, in the future, Denver receives information showing either GOFF or the "Soldiers of the Cross" come within the above-mentioned criteria, the Bureau will be immediately advised.

RM (ORGANIZATION)

ReBulet 10/23/67.

A review of the Denver file on the above-captioned organization and investigation shows that the "Soldiers of the Cross" does not fit under the criteria set forth in Section 122(a) of the Manual of Instructions, pertaining to hate groups, for the following reasons:

On November 18, 1967, [REDACTED] Internal Revenue Service (IRS), Denver, Colorado, advised they are currently conducting an extensive investigation into the activities of KENNETH GOFF and the "Soldiers of the Cross." GOFF refuses to turn over certain records to IRS as required by IRS regulations for the granting of a tax exemption for the "Soldiers of the Cross" as an eleemosynary group. GOFF claims that by turning over the records, it would mean a disclosure of several persons working for him behind the Iron Curtain. IRS is attempting to determine if GOFF is using money from "Soldiers of the Cross" for his own use. GOFF is the National Director of the "Soldiers of the Cross" for life.

The "Soldiers of the Cross" was incorporated under the laws of the State of Colorado as a non-profit corporation on November 12, 1952, under Article 14, 1941, Colorado Statutes Annotated, and registered in the County of Arapahoe. The Bylaws were adopted at the annual meeting of the corporation held at Englewood, Colorado, on January 5, 1953.

On January 26, 1959, a tax ruling was made regarding an exemption for the "Soldiers of the Cross" under IRS Section 501(c)(3), granting the "Soldiers of the Cross" a tax exemption.

It was determined at this time that the IRS was satisfied that GOFF does not speak for the church and act on its behalf when engaged in his political activities, but that such activity represents the personal affairs of Reverend GOFF. Dear Mr. Hoover:

[redacted] wrote to your department with regard to a notarized statement that I had made concerning the subject of fluoridation. Your department turned this letter over to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. In return, the gentleman received some material from that department, but enclosed with it were excerpts from The Denver Post from 1947 to 1956. These were headlines from clippings showing my anti-Communist activity. The headlines, in themselves, would be libelous without the full content of what was said.

It seems amazing to me that the Department of Justice - and especially the F.B.I. under your leadership - would subject itself to such a position whereby The Denver Post would become the authority on all anti-Communists or former Communists living in that area. This is especially amazing inasmuch as they have done everything within their power to destroy my testimony, even though I have been an expert witness before the Dies Committee, the Immigration Department, and have rendered a great deal of service to your own department in the material that I have furnished throughout the years and the affidavits I have given in investigations. Does it not seem incredible that the newspaper that fought your late friend Senator Joseph McCarthy so hard and who advertises the writings of [redacted] and other left-wingers, should be the source of authority and the answer to anyone looking into my past?

With every best wish, I remain,

Sincerely yours for Christ and America,

Re: KENNETH GOFF

Kenneth Goff is, of course, well known to the Bureau. He claims to have been a member of the Communist Party prior to 1939 and in recent years has been touring the country lecturing on communism. He has been described as a borderline psychopath.

"The Denver Post" has been highly critical of the Director and the Bureau in the past and has displayed a generally hostile attitude toward the FBI.

OBSERVATIONS

In view of Goff's background, it does not appear that any worthwhile purpose would be served in acknowledging his letter of 2/10/68. His communication makes no particular inquiry and was apparently written merely for the purpose of Goff's making his comments known to the Director.

Dear Sirs:

Recently I received a tract published by LIFE MESSENGERS, Box 1967, Seattle, Washington quoting a Kenneth Goff who was supposedly an ardent communist several years ago, and who now is very much anti-communist. Mr. Goff is reported as stating how through race riots, fires, etc., the communists plan on taking over this nation.

Can you send me any information regarding Mr. Goff. If he was a former communist, the stature of what the article implies he was you would no doubt have some record of him. I would appreciate any information you can give me. Thank you.

Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Hoover,

Enclosed is a tract that a friend of mine gave me (Marked for Judgement). I thought it was excellent, but before giving it out to people I was wondering if you knew if your fine organization, the Senate Internal Sub-Committee, or the House Committee on UnAmerican Activities have any substantiation of the statements made by Kenneth Goff?

On behalf of the many concerned citizens of my community, we want you to know that you are one of the very few persons in Washington who we have unswerving trust and confidence. Please remain at your post as long as you can because many of us fear when you leave, your office will be used like the KGB in Russia.

May God continue to guide and protect you and your loved ones.

Respectfully yours,

An Open Letter To All America

Dear Fellow-citizen of our beloved land:

The words burning within me are hard to speak. Before I bring them to you let me first say that there is hope and there is a solution. But the hour is frightfully late!

For many years the Communists have let us know, by various means, that they expect to have world dominion by the year 1973. They now have let it be known that they consider themselves five years ahead of schedule!

The one large obstacle in the way of Russia ruling the world is the United States of America. But Russia has plans for us. She is planning to turn citizen against citizen in this fair land of ours, and in this way, together with invasion, destroy us. The riot in Watts 3 years ago was simply the beginning of a master plan. The following year there were riots in several cities. And you all know the story of last year when riots broke out all over the land. But they tell us that this is nothing compared with what they have planned for the summer of 1968. They warn us that they plan to set the nation on fire, together with rioting all over the land. They warn us that even the outlying areas will not be safe. They plan to set forest and field on fire as well. And we have been warned what to expect when riots of this proportion take place. Allow me to quote briefly from a bulletin entitled "End of The World" which we published some months ago—

According To Blueprint

The greater part of this violence and planned treason is according to the blueprint of Communism for the take over of the United States and the world.

Kenneth Goff, now an ardent anti-Communist, was once an active worker in "The Party" in Milwaukee. His boss was Gene Dennis, who later became the National Secretary of the Communist Party in America.

In one of his writings Mr. Goff details the blueprint of how the Reds are planning to seize a city when the revolution breaks out. Gene Dennis gave careful instructions concerning the Satanic strategy, step by step. Mr. Goff writes:

"At that hour large race riots are supposed to take place in every city of any size. Leaders of these mobs are to be carefully chosen and trained in advance (to work on both sides). The disturbances are to be of some extent so as to require sending large forces of police to those areas. While the authorities are trying to quell these riots, picked bands of Reds are to seize the radio and TV stations and telephone exchanges. With the aid of their comrades, who are employed inside, all communication systems are to be instantly crippled, or taken over.

"Flying squads of Communists are to seize control of the water supply and shut it off; also the electrical power and gas. This means that no elevators or streetcars, subways or electric buses would be running. Other buses would be seized. Homes would be without water, fuel, light or telephone. It would be impossible to communicate with friends or loved ones, even in another part of the city.

"Goon squads of professional murderers are to round up the people in the business districts. Men are to be held as hostages in some of the larger buildings. Women are to be turned over to the sex-crazed mobs unless the men surrender.

These are exactly the methods used in Russia, China and other places where the Communist Party was allowed to organize and come to fruition. They expect to do the same thing in the United States.

"Bridges, subways and railroad stations are to be blown up and airports seized. Downtown areas are to be isolated from the rest of the city. Sharpshooters and snipers are to be detailed in taxicabs and private cars, which are to be taken over, to wipe out the police, soldiers, uniformed persons and known vigilantes. Smoke bombs, properly located in subways, buildings and large stores, are to add to the terror of the people.

"This is the day—the big day toward which every Communist in America is looking... and for which he is preparing. His entire training focuses at that point.

"When night comes, the city is to be in pitch darkness. Murderous bands of Reds will roam the streets, plundering shops and stores, and starting fires in old buildings. This will increase the panic and facilitate the surrender of men.

"Then, as the morning's sun casts its first rays on the community, one will be able to see blood flowing in the streets. This is no idle dream. The Communist Party is working methodically and with deadly precision toward this objective."

Former Communists, who have abandoned the party, seem to be of one mind in endeavoring to remind us that their training, while agents of Moscow, was principally directed toward correct planning for the day of revolution. It is important that we understand now that this look-for day is not to be regarded as a myth. It is one of the most essential steps in the Communist grab for power.

Preparation for the big day of riot and revolution is now being made. The riots taking place in America these days are fully planned, and new persons are constantly being trained in how to direct a riot. Each of the present riots is simply a classroom in practical experience for zero day.

"My dear son

I am so sorry you are going to have to live under Communism.

It seemed to come so quickly.

I didn't think their lies could win.

I guess we were so busy with other things.

Not enough of us spoke up for freedom when we had the chance."

TROUBLEMAKER

He is the silent one. He never speaks up on issues. He never sounds off in the letter column of his local newspaper. He never writes his Congressman. He is quiet as a clam. How can the United States stay free . . . if all of us, like this one, withhold our opinions, our ideas, our criticisms? The silent troublemaker fails to understand this. He never dares to question an oppressive law. In his wish to offend nobody, he offends all. Freedom begins at home.

"What Will You Tell Your Children?"

HOW WILL YOU EXPLAIN WHEN YOUR YOUNGSTERS ASK YOU ABOUT THE AMERICA THAT WAS?

Oftentimes, for the sake of argument, one must stipulate to certain points as facts. Let's hope that our friends who see no danger in the Communist program will agree, for the time being, that there is such a danger and that the danger may suddenly overcome America, just as it did Czechoslovakia. What will you tell your children?

Let's say, for the sake of argument, that the Reds assume control: they are in control of communications, they are in control of public utilities, they have slaughtered or imprisoned the police, they have clobbered resistance, and America lies prone awaiting the blood purges that must certainly follow, enduring the terrifying period of vacuum before the calked heel of Godless Communist tyranny comes smashing down.

What will you tell those youngsters clustered at your knees? How will you tell them that their nation, strong, dynamic, compassionate a few years ago, is now gone? How will you tell them that you cannot go to the store and buy food for them because the store is locked against its owners and that your money is no longer any good? How will you tell them that the policeman on the corner is no longer a friend — he has been replaced by a tyrant from the steppes of Asia or from the jungles of Africa? How will you tell them that the America your fathers gave to you has been lost?

What will you say when your little son, who feels you are a Marshal Dillon or a Hopalong Cassidy, asks you why you don't take a gun and go out to set things straight? What will you say when your teenager asks you what you have done to prevent this takeover? Will you tell him you played golf or went fishing or learned to water ski, or worked in the garden or learned to make ceramics or hiked in the hills or a million other things, while your nation went down the drain?

What will you say when these children, whose lives have already been blueprinted for them, ask what they should do? How will you advise them when they ask if they should resist? What will you say if they ask you if they should continue to adore God, despite the ultimatum of the New Order? What will you do when the order comes to gather your children and ship them into State camps where they can become robots of the State?

Communist writings openly predict that they will seize control centers, and that the great mass of population will lie prostrate. Records show that the lawless of a nation will take this opportunity to swoop down on the helpless, motivated in part by the same drive that causes looting after floods have driven people from their homes. Can you be sure that this will not happen — especially after you read of the riots in Harlem and Rochester? There certainly was no motivation to justify attacks upon citizens and police, and the destruction of private property. How would these same people react if all laws were suddenly eliminated?

Or, suppose you lived through the blood baths, and 15 years from now your youngsters asked about the America that was. Will you tell them of the freedoms you had, the freedom to go where you wished, to do what you wished, to say what you wished? Will you tell them of the fun you had and the happiness you had? What will you say when they ask how these things happened to slip away?

Will you admit that you dismissed all efforts to halt the drift toward Communism as "McCarthyism", that you helped smear everyone who tried to point out the danger?

If you are a father or mother, look at your children. If they are asleep, walk in and look at them — peaceful, contented, trusting. Are you doing anything to prevent just such a terrifying picture as we have painted? Do you bother to inform yourself on the drift toward tyranny? Or do you plan to collaborate with the enemy, to "make friends" with the New Order?

If America is to be spared this terror, it must be because her people have forbidden it. If the people will not stem the tide, then each American must face the terror that has already been visited upon Czechoslovakia, Poland, Yugoslavia, East Germany, Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, Manchuria, and many, many other lands.

And Mister, what will you tell your children??

CURRENT COMMUNIST GOALS

The forty-five "CURRENT COMMUNIST GOALS" listed below appeared in the Congressional Record of January 10, 1963. They were taken from the "Naked Communist" by W. Cleon Skousen, who began his extensive study of Communism during his sixteen year term of service with the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Mr. Skousen is now field director of the American Security Council.

1. U. S. acceptance of coexistence as the only alternative to atomic war.
2. U. S. willingness to capitulate in preference to engaging in atomic war.
3. Develop the illusion that total disarmament by the United States would be a demonstration of moral strength.
4. Permit free trade between all nations regardless of Communist affiliation and regardless of whether or not items could be used for war.
5. Extension of long-term loans to Russia and Soviet Satellites.
6. Provide American aid to all nations regardless of Communist domination.
7. Grant recognition of Red China. Admission of Red China to the UN.
8. Set up East and West Germany as separate states in spite of Khrushchev's promise in 1955 to settle the Germany question by free elections under supervision of the UN.
9. Prolong the conferences to ban atomic tests because the U.S. has agreed to suspend tests as long as negotiations are in progress.
10. Allow all Soviet satellites individual representation in the UN.
11. Promote the UN as the only hope for mankind. If its charter is rewritten, demand that it be set up as a one-world government with its own independent armed forces. (Some Communist leaders believe the world can be taken over as easily by the UN as by Moscow. Sometimes these two centers compete with each other as they are now doing in the Congo.)
12. Resist any attempt to outlaw the Communist Party.
13. Do away with all loyalty oaths.
14. Continue giving Russia access to the U.S. Patent Office.
15. Capture one or both of the political parties in the United States.
16. Use technical decisions of the courts to weaken basic American institutions by claiming their activities violate civil rights.
17. Get control of the schools. Use them as transmission belts for socialism and current Communist propaganda. Soften the curriculum. Get control of teachers' associations. Put the party line in textbooks.
18. Gain control of all student newspapers.
19. Use student riots to foment public protests against programs or organizations which are under Communist attack.
20. Infiltrate the press. Get control of book-review assignments, editorial writing, policy-making positions.
21. Gain control of key positions in radio, TV and motion pictures.
22. Continue discrediting American culture by degrading all forms of artistic expression. An American Communist cell was told to "eliminate all good sculpture from parks and buildings, substitute shapeless, awkward and meaningless forms."
23. Control art critics and directors of art museums. "Our plan is to promote ugliness, repulsive, meaningless art."
24. Eliminate all laws governing obscenity by calling them "censorship" and a violation of free speech and free press.
25. Break down cultural standards of morality by promoting pornography and obscenity in books, magazines, motion pictures, radio and TV.
26. Present homo-sexuality, degeneracy and promiscuity as "normal, natural, healthy."
27. Infiltrate the churches and replace revealed religion with "social" religion. Discredit the Bible and emphasize the need for intellectual maturity which does not need a "religious crutch."
28. Eliminate prayer or any phase of religious expression in the schools on the ground that it violates the principle of "separation of church and state."
29. Discredit the American Constitution by calling it inadequate, old-fashioned, out of step with modern needs, a hindrance to cooperation between nations on a world-wide basis.
30. Discredit the American founding fathers. Present them as selfish aristocrats who had no concern for the "common man."
31. Belittle all forms of American culture and discourage the teaching of American history on the ground that it was only a minor part of "the big picture." Give more emphasis to Russian history since the Communists took over.
32. Support any socialist movement to give centralized control over any part of the culture—education, social agencies, welfare programs, mental health clinics, etc.
33. Eliminate all laws or procedures which interfere with the operation of the Communist apparatus.
34. Eliminate the House Committee on Un-American Activities.
35. Discredit and eventually dismantle the FBI.
36. Infiltrate and gain control of more unions.
37. Infiltrate and gain control of big business.
38. Transfer some of the powers of arrest from the police to social agencies. Treat all behavioral problems as psychiatric disorders which no one but psychiatrists can understand or treat.
39. Dominate the psychiatric profession and use mental health laws as a means of gaining coercive control over those who oppose Communist goals.
40. Discredit the family as an institution. Encourage promiscuity and easy divorce.
41. Emphasize the need to raise children away from the negative influence of parents. Attribute prejudices, mental blocks and retarding of children to suppressive influence of parents.
42. Create the impression that violence and insurrection are legitimate aspects of the American tradition; that students and special-interest groups should rise up and use "united force" to solve economic, political or social problems.
43. Overthrow all colonial governments before native populations are ready for self-government.
44. Internationalize the Panama Canal.
45. Repeal the Connally Reservation so the U.S. cannot prevent the World Court from seizing jurisdiction over domestic problems. Give the World Court jurisdiction over nations and individuals alike.

If you, too, are shocked at these statements, remember they are RECORDED in THE U. S. CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

protected and to be honored. You have taken the tithe, and fed upon the sheep of your congregation, but you have sold them down the river! You have talked about the decadent ministry which contributed to the overthrow of Russia. Is your hypocrisy more acceptable to God than theirs? You had better read again in Ezekiel 34, and Hosea 4:6-9.

Repent, And DIE TO SELF That You Might Live

But even at this late hour our loving Heavenly Father stands with open arms, asking that people and preacher REPENT and turn from their wicked ways, and live for Him and serve Him faithfully. "He knoweth our frame. He remembereth that we are but dust." "His mercy and loving kindness endureth forever." But unless we repent God has no alternative but to judge us.

Where is the Christian minister who will wholly sell out to God, fearing neither the worldly wise, the rich, nor anyone else in his congregation or community? Where is the minister who will stand against and warn against godless communism, willing to take the consequences of retaliation unto suffering and death if need be, if God should allow communism to prevail for a time? Let him stand forth and call every sinner to repentance, whether they be church member, board member or fellow minister! Let him stand forth and call the repentant ones and the faithful to the sacrificing of time, pleasures and worldly pursuits to now pray, if perchance God will forgive and heal our land. We need now as never before to heed the conditions, and claim the promises of II Chronicles 7:14.

A Greater Condemnation

And to you who have had no time for God, you have criticized the churches but you have in no way sought God yourself. You are equally to blame for the peril our nation now faces. This great universe did not come into existence by chance. The very body in which your soul lives is a testimony to the greatness of Almighty God. You have sinned against your God even by your neglect of Him. And your other sins are many of them too vile to mention. But God in His love for you sent His Only Begotten Son—sent Him to this earth in the form of the man Jesus Christ. He was sent by the Father to take the punishment you deserve. You have chosen to ignore God and to live for the satisfying of your own lusts. You have defied the Governor of this universe. You have defied your heavenly Father Who made you in His image.

And our just God has decreed that you must be punished. And that punishment is to be everlasting separation from Him, even as you have chosen to be separated from Him in this present life.

But Jesus Christ came to be God's Lamb, to be sacrificed as a sin-offering for you. He died upon the cross of Calvary because of your sins. And this God Who loves you so much invites you to accept His offering of forgiveness through His Son Jesus Christ and to surrender your heart and your all to Him. You will then have the promise of everlasting life.

God says that the everlasting life He has promised you has such wonderful things in store that no man has ever even imagined the wonder of it all.

There Is Hope

So to one and to all of my fellow-Americans, as a minister of Christ, I call on you to join me in searching our hearts that we might realize wherein we have failed our God, and that we might ask His forgiveness and plead with Him for mercy and deliverance from the great dangers which threaten.

There is nothing too hard for God. The situation in our land is absolutely hopeless, because there is not only the enemy without but also within. But the God of miracles is able to deliver today even as He did in ages past. To His people of old He said, "If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land."

This promise is directed to those who are called by His name. Are you truly one of His? If you are I invite you to join me in calling unto our God for His deliverance. If you do not know Him and are not called by His name, I invite and encourage you to accept His forgiveness through Jesus Christ His Son. Then you too can expect that God will be pleased to hear your call and prayer for the salvation of our nation. Your days to make your peace with God may be few in number. Call upon Him now to forgive and to receive you, while you still live in the day of His grace.

Sound The Call To Prayer

There should be morning prayer meetings, noontime prayer meetings, prayers in the afternoon, in the evening and in the hours of the night. God may lead some of you to call others to prayer, in your homes, in the office, in rented auditoriums, in churches and everywhere. I especially appeal to you, my fellow ministers, to fall on your knees before God and ask His forgiveness, and lead the way courageously.

But let us not depend on the other fellow, not even on the minister. YOU may be the key to what God really wants to do.

It must be said in years to come that "1968 was the year America truly repented and turned to God for help." If this does not happen the records may read "In 1968 the great United States of America fell."

This is no time to cringe in fear of man. This is a time to fear God, pleading His mercy, and trusting in His undertaking.

An Open Letter To All America

Dear Fellow-citizen of our beloved land:

The words burning within me are hard to speak. Before I bring them to you let me first say that there is hope and there is a solution. But the hour is frightfully late!

For many years the Communists have let us know, by various means, that they expect to have world dominion by the year 1973. They now have let it be known that they consider themselves five years ahead of schedule!

The one large obstacle in the way of Russia ruling the world is the United States of America. But Russia has plans for us. She is planning to turn citizen against citizen in this fair land of ours, and in this way, together with invasion, destroy us. The riot in Watts 3 years ago was simply

They warn us that even the outlying areas will not be safe. They plan to set forest and field on fire as well. And we have been warned what to expect when riots of this proportion take place. Allow me to quote briefly from a bulletin entitled "End of The World" which we published some months ago—

According To Blueprint

The greater part of this violence and planned treason is according to the blueprint of Communism for the take over of the United States and the world.

Kenneth Goff, now an ardent anti-Communist, was once an active worker in "The Party" in Milwaukee. His boss was Gene Dennis, who later became the National Secretary of the Communist Party in America.

In one of his writings, Mr. Goff details the blueprint of how the Reds are planning to seize a city when the revolution breaks out. Gene Dennis gave careful instructions concerning the Satanic strategy, step by step. Mr. Goff writes:

"At that hour large race riots are supposed to take place in every city of any size. Leaders of these mobs are to be carefully chosen and trained in advance (to work on both sides). While the authorities are trying to quell these riots, picked bands of Reds are to seize the radio and TV stations and telephone exchanges. With the aid of their comrades, who are employed inside, all communication systems are to be instantly crippled, or taken over.

"Flying squads of Communists are to seize control of the water supply and shut it off; also the electrical power and gas. This means that no elevators or streetcars, subways or electric buses would be running. Other buses would be seized. Homes would be without water, fuel, light or telephone. It would be impossible to communicate with friends or loved ones, even in another part of the city.

These are exactly the methods used in Russia, China and other places where the Communist Party was allowed to organize and come to fruition. They expect to do the same thing in the United States.

"Bridges, subways and railroad stations are to be blown up and airports seized. Downtown areas are to be isolated from the rest of the city. Sharpshooters and snipers are to be detailed in taxicabs and private cars, which are to be taken over, to wipe out the police, soldiers, uniformed persons and known vigilantes. Smoke bombs, properly located in subways, buildings and large stores, are to add to the terror of the people.

"This is the day—the big day toward which every Communist in America is looking... and for which he is preparing. His entire training focuses at that point.

"When night comes, the city is to be in pitch darkness. Murderous bands of Reds will roam the streets, plundering shops and stores, and starting fires in old buildings. This will increase the panic and facilitate the surrender of men.

"Then, as the morning's sun casts its first rays on the community, one will be able to see blood flowing in the streets. This is no idle dream. The Communist Party is working methodically and with deadly precision toward this objective."

Former Communists, who have abandoned the party, seem to be of one mind in endeavoring to remind us that their training, while agents of Moscow, was principally directed toward correct planning for the day of revolution. It is important that we understand now that this looked-for day is not to be regarded as a myth. It is one of the most essential steps in the Communist grab for power.

Preparation for the big day of riot and revolution is now being made. The riots taking place in America these days are fully planned, and new persons are constantly being trained in how to direct a riot. Each of the present riots is simply a classroom in practical experience for zero day.

Besides all these threats and dangers from race tensions we have a controlled press, a controlled radio and TV and a muzzled ministry in the pulpits of our churches. What great newspapers are sounding the warning and demanding that our government take action? They are few and far between. TV and radio dramatize our war conflicts with Germany and other nations, but they seldom portray the Communists as our enemies. Our whole nation is infiltrated with traitors, plus leaders on every level who are afraid to speak out.

WHO IS TO BLAME?

Now, there is hope only if we understand where the real trouble lies and take action! There is a world conspiracy, masterminded by none other than Satan himself. The Communist conspiracy is his, but it is only a prelude to the world government he plans to bring about and control. (Read The Revelation.) Satan is able to make his advances only because God is allowing it. God would never allow Satan's conspiracy to overcome America if we were living in God's will. But sin is increasing on every hand, and our fair land is fast becoming overripe for Judgment.

Allow me to point out the various persons who are at fault. And most likely you will find yourself included. First of all let us begin with the religious folks, who are supposed to be living for God and for the everlasting life they are looking forward to. The Apostle Paul warned you Christian folks what would happen to you in the latter days. He wrote, "The time will come when they (the Christian people) will not endure sound doctrine; but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears; and they shall turn away their ears from the truth, and shall be turned unto fables."

This has actually come to pass in our day. Most of you Christians across the land have become as concerned for the pleasures and satisfying of every fleshly lust as the unbeliever. And if your minister has boldly declared the warnings of God, warning you of God's judgment upon your sin, of whatever nature, wherever he finds it, you have gone to him and told him to stop meddling and simply preach about Jesus Christ. You complained there was little love in such preaching. No, and there was little love in the preaching of Jeremiah, Elijah, Paul or Jesus Christ. Their main theme was REPENT! If your preacher continued to warn, instead of listening to you, you had various ways of getting him to move along so that you could call a preacher who would preach nice, soothing, harmless messages.

Faithful Servants Dismissed

Jeremiah was put in a dungeon. Elijah had to flee for his life. Paul was imprisoned. Christ was crucified. And what have you done to the minister who boldly preached the truth! You either ignored his message, or rid yourself of him. You will find yourself mentioned in Ezekiel 33:30 to 33. And also in Matthew 25.

MANY OF YOU WHO CLAIM TO FOLLOW JESUS CHRIST ARE TO BLAME FOR THE TROUBLE AND JUDGMENT FACING OUR LAND! If you had encouraged your ministers to preach the whole counsel of God, without compromise, our land would not be facing the threats of annihilation and slavery which we face today. A just God must punish sin. If you will not judge yourself, God will judge you.

Fables, Fortune and Fame

And you ministers, who are supposed to be shepherds of the flock, most of you have listened to the bleatings of the sheep instead of the commands and instructions of your Master and Creator! You have been more concerned about peace at any price, and assurance of financial security, and the praise of your congregation and denomination, than you have been about being faithful to the truth as you know it is declared in God's Word. You have been more concerned about pleasing those to whom you were sent, than to please the One who sent you. You have hardly dared to say a word against anything, if someone was opposed. What warning have you given against the godless religions of evolution, communism and one-churchism, which are leading to one-worldism and the dictatorship to be controlled by Satan. And what other warnings have you failed to give? Likewise you have glossed over sin by promising salvation without repentance. YOU HAVE DENIED THE FAITH!

Yours is a greater indictment than even that of the man in the pew. Where is your manliness? Where is your godliness? Where is your courage to stand against every opposition, knowing that your Lord has promised to be with you even unto the end of the age as you proclaim His message? Is He really with you, when you sidestep the real issues of national and personal sins, for fear. Rev. 21:8 warns, "The fearful . . . shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone." Many of you are not even converted. Christ is not your Lord—self still sits on the throne of your heart demanding to be pampered, to be

Dear Mr. Hoover:

On page 2 of the enclosed leaflet, "Marked for Judgment," is a quotation from a book by Kenneth Goff, formerly a Communist, now an "ardent anti-Communist." I have side-lined in red the quotation, which relates the way in which the Communists plan to cripple many large cities simultaneously, and then take over the U. S. government.

Is this plan as stated in the leaflet substantially correct?

"Marked for Judgment" is published by Life Messengers from whom I have ordered various religious books and leaflets, and consider a reliable publishing house. I am the wife of a retired Presbyterian minister, a Republican and a conservative.

According to another leaflet put out by the same publisher, entitled "Formula 2 Chronicles 7-14," which also contains a quote from Kenneth Goff concerning the same Communist plans for a U. S. takeover, the book from which the quotation is taken is "Reds Promote Racial War" by Kenneth Goff. I have only one copy of "2 Ch. 7-14" and want to keep it, whereas I ordered several of "Marked for Judgment" to give to friends.

I shall eagerly await your reply as to whether this is actually the Communist plan.

Sincerely yours,

Gentlemen:

Last night I read a monograph entitled "Brain-washing". It is distributed by a Kenneth Goff, Post Office Box 116, Englewood, Colorado. In the Forward Mr. Goff states that he was a Communist in the late '30's and attended a Communist school in Wisconsin. The balance of the pamphlet, running about 50 pages, purports, according to Mr. Goff, to be one of the teaching materials used by the school or in the Communist underground, I am not certain which. It is a hair-raiser, and contains unbelievable directions for brain-washing the people of non-Communist countries, particularly America.

I would like to know whether Mr. Goff's pamphlet is spurious, or whether in fact it is the teaching of the Communist underground and of their schools. Your enlightenment will be appreciated.

Yours very truly

Thomas Coakley

REF: Brain-Washing; a Synthesis of the Russian Textbook
on Psychopolitics, by Kenneth Goff. Truth, Inc.,
Fort Worth, Texas. n.d.

Dear Sir:

We (my wife and I and some close associates) are, and have been, working to the limit of our ability with the people, both black and white, in and around the City of Pontiac to obtain stronger, more republican government and to forestall, in so far as possible, strong socialist activities. We have no factual data as to whether or not these activities are specifically Communist-directed, but certainly it seems that the Pontiac-Detroit-Flint area is a worthy target, as you undoubtedly know much better than I.

We have noted the apparent failure of the fundamentalist churches in the area and societies such as the Birch Society to make headway, primarily, in our estimation, because they have been too prone to use materials which unfortunately contain mistakes or incomplete information, thereby permitting their antagonists to discredit both the material and the organization. As an example, I cite [redacted] statement in A Choice Not an Echo accusing [redacted] of failure to file income tax returns (p.18). Representative William S. Broomfield, acting on a request by the late George A. Dondero to verify this statement, said he found that [redacted] tax returns were in order. Very specifically, this mistake came close to souring [redacted] on conservatives permanently. Unfortunately, this kind of mistake occurs so frequently that we find that many of the anti-Communists and non-Communist groups are a help simply because they are not Communists.

In this light, we have arrived at a point where we could make very good use, on a limited basis, of the referenced book by Kenneth Goff. Unfortunately, some of the statements are such that a reader's first response is, "Why, the Communists wouldn't say things like that". We are prepared to battle this, forcefully if necessary, by making them read similar statements in the World Marxist Review. In addition to this difficulty, we find that Mr. Goff makes specific reference on pages 45, 46 and 49 to Dianetics and Dianeticists. However, the Editorial Note implies that this book is a synthesis of a book written prior to 1939. According to our information, [redacted] in 1938, had not yet performed sufficient investigation to even begin development of the techniques that would later form the nucleus of the Dianetic procedures. (See Astounding Science Fiction, May 1950, v.45, No. 3, p.43.) Further reading in this article leads one to surmise that major activity did not occur until after 1945, and definitely the Dianetics movement did not achieve national publicity until 1951 or 1952.

Admittedly, Dr. Goff can be allowed certain freedom in preparing a synthesis; however, because of the questions raised, we feel that, for our use at least, both the statements attributed to the Russian source material and the implied date must be verified absolutely. Perhaps even a new synthesis should be made.

Accordingly, we ask the help of you or your organization to either certify the validity of Goff's book or to give us information as to the availability of the Russian source book so that we can re-translate, if it is written in Russian, and/or resynthesize. If this is not permitted, perhaps you can suggest someone else who can help us.

Sincerely,
